Troop Movement Brings Protest From Abyssinia

League Gets Protest Against Italian Troop Movement Near Border

LEAGUE MEMBERS DISCUSS ETHIOPIA

Franco-British 'Backstage' Conversations On Dispute Are Under Way

By HUDSON HAWLEY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

GENEVA, Sept. 10.—Abyssinia today filed a protest with the League of Nations against the concentration of Italian troops along her northern frontiers.

The protest was contained in a brief note filed by the Abyssinian delegation, as foretold to International News Service yesterday by its leader, Bedjurond Tecle Hawariate. The protest was aimed at movement of approximately 45,000 Italian troops in Eritrea toward the Abyssinian borders in the region of Adowa.

Parley On Dispute

Backstage conversations on the Italo-Abyssinian dispute began in earnest, with Premier Pierre Laval of France in the role of leading negotiator.

Franco-British discussions were held at which Laval and Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign minister, had their first meeting at the present league session. Capt. Anthony Eden, British minister for league affairs, and William Strange, counsellor for the British foreign office, also took part. It was understood the talks were devoted to consideration of the speech Sir Samuel is to deliver to the league assembly tomorrow.

Hope For Report

A meeting of the committee of five, with Laval participating, was scheduled for 5:00 p. m. It was hoped the African experts would be able to report progress on their deliberations since appointment to a sub-committee yesterday.

Senator James P. Pope of the American senate's foreign relations committee was to confer with league officials today in an unofficial capacity.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Just one week from today and New Castle and Lawrence County voters will be casting ballots in one of the greatest primary nomination campaigns in the history of the county, at least from the point of numbers of candidates concerned.

Nine tomatoes in one! Mrs. Adolph Green, West Wallace avenue, yesterday sent to The News such an oddity from her garden. The large tomato, the size of an average tomato, had eight smaller ones clustered around it.

Pa Newc believes this "hitch-hiking" which the state has forbideen on its highways has switched to New Castle streets. A motorist can hardly turn north, south, east or west from the downtown section without seeing a "thumber."

A group of youngsters were seen on Delaware Avenue last night in large coaster wagons. They would start at the top of the Delaware Hill and coast to the bottom. This was greatly annoying to motorists traveling on this street.

You may believe it or not, but there is a live tomato plant growing within twenty five feet of the public square. This may be seen growing up between the bricks and the wall of the Wallace Building just at the rear of the building. There are no tomatoes on it, but it was seen out in bloom.

Senator Long Held Unique Place In American Politics

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON Sept. 10.—Book agent, lawyer, legislator and finally supreme power in the state of Louisiana and a national figure, Senator Huey Pierce Long carved a career unique in the annals of American politics.

There has never been anybody just like him before. It is a task for the imagination to picture another Kingfish in the future.

To a great many he was the epitome of all that is bad in politics. And to countless thousands, too, he was an economic savior, crying in the wilderness his sermon of "share-the-wealth."

Taken as a whole, the man was almost incredible, his exploits breathless adventures in which he frequently snatched adroit victory from seemingly inevitable defeat.

Time and again, the undisputed dictator of Louisiana's delta coun-

Governor Allen May Be Senator From Louisiana

Right-Hand Man Of Assassinated Kingfish May Be Successor

(International News Service)

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 10.—Upon whose shoulders will the senatorial mantle of Sen. Huey P. Long fall?

This question was upon the lips of virtually everyone in the state today as the full realization what the senator's death will mean to the state began to be felt.

There were rumors aplenty, but so far there has been no confirmation of any of them. Sen. Long's political organization has been so stunned by the shock of his death there has been no chance to outline future activities.

But one of the most creditable rumors is that Gov. O. K. Allen, who has been Sen. Long's hight-hand man in state politics, will don the toga worn by his chief.

For this to take place, Gov. Allen would have to resign as chief executive of the state and then receive the senatorial appointment from his successor, the present lieutenant-governor, James Noe.

There is considerable basis for this report.

DOCTOR WHO SHOT SENATOR LONG

DR. CARL A. WEISS

Dr. Carl A. Weiss, 30, eye specialist of Baton Rouge, La., was shot to death in the Louisiana state capitol by Senator Huey P. Long's bodyguards who fired 61 bullets into his body, after he had fatally wounded the "Kingfish".

Walter Smith, Injured In Florida Hurricane, Was Mill Heater Here

In an interesting letter to her father, David Hartland of East Long avenue, Mrs. John McNamara of Miami, Fla., tells of a visit she and her husband made to Walter Smith, 52, a former New Castle man, who was badly injured in the hurricane which struck the Florida keys a week ago. Mr. Smith is in the Victoria hospital in Miami, seriously injured but expected to recover.

Left City In 1928.

Mr. Smith left New Castle in 1928. He was known here as Watt Smith and at one time was a heater on No. 17 in the Shenango mill. Many tinworkers of this city remember him.

Along with a group of other men he was located on Matecumbe Key. The hurricane stripped the key of the beautiful cocoanut trees, picked up the cabins and thatched huts and sailed them through the air and the water inundated the key.

Smith was washed out into the Gulf of Mexico and was pinioned in wreckage. All night long he managed to keep afloat and quenched his thirst by letting raindrops run down his forehead and nose into his mouth.

Finally Reaches Shore.

Once he was struck by a heavy log and nearly killed. Around him were the cries of drowning men and he expected to be drowned himself. At dawn he found himself 200 yards off shore with the wreckage holding him fast. He finally managed to work his way loose and get to shore where he crawled up on the beach exhausted.

Mrs. McNamara says the scenes after the hurricane are beyond description. Houses reduced to matchwood, human bodies lying among the wreckage, trees stripped and the entire scene was a shambles.

HUGE FLOCK OF BIRDS

An immense flock of birds, approximately one half mile around, was seen flying over the city last night. This is one of the largest groups of birds ever seen here and a number of motorists halted their cars to watch them.

Third Party Is Dealt Blow By Death Of Long

No Probable Leader For Third Major Party Is Seen At Present

LONG INTENDED TO BE CANDIDATE

Assassin's Victim Was Planning For Race For Presidency In 1936

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The death of Senator Huey Long removes the principal threat of a major third party movement in the presidential campaign of 1936.

There may be—probably will be—an insurgent ticket in the field next year, but without the leadership of the volatile, rabble-rousing Kingfish, politicians do not believe it will get very far. It was Huey who was the spearhead, the motivating spirit of the insurgent wing of both old parties, and with his elimination there doesn't appear on the horizon anyone who can carry on.

Planned To Run For Presidency.

Huey planned to run for the presidency next year. He said publicly that if the Democrats renominated Mr. Roosevelt and the Republicans ran Mr. Hoover "I'll be a candidate." He said privately that he was going to be a candidate in any event, irrespective of the Democratic and Republican choices. He made one exception. He said if the Republicans nominated Senator William E. Borah of Idaho he would support him.

The nucleus of Huey's third party, as he planned it, was first of all his own followers, secondly, those of Father Coughlin, the Detroit radio priest, and thirdly, those who subscribed to the philosophy of Dr. Francis E. Townsend, the aging California physician, who brought out the novel idea that the federal government should pay $200 a month to all persons who passed the age of 60.

"Share the Wealth."

Huey's own political tom-tom was "share the wealth," and "every man a king." Father Coughlin's was, and is, radical monetary reform. Dr. Townsend's was, and is, old age security through the pension plan. Between the three of them, provided they could get together, they were in a position to make trouble next year for the regular nominees of both parties, and especially for Mr. Roosevelt. Such a third party movement as Huey intended starting would be

Wampum Has Explosion In Paint Plant

(Special To The News)

WAMPUM, Sept. 10.—At noon today, an explosion literally startled the village, as a kettle of oil used in preparation of paint products, boiled over and caused an explosion at the plant of the Lastik Products corporation on Clyde street.

The building is fireproof, and was not damaged to any extent, but the loss for products destroyed will probably occasion damage of $1,000 or more, according to Milton Flint, manager.

Fortunately the explosion occurred when all employes were out for dinner, and no one was injured.

The Wampum fire department responded to a call for assistance, but there was no resulting fire of any consequence.

Father Coughlin Regrets Shooting Of Senator Long

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 10—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, noted radio priest, declared here today that the death of Senator Huey Long "is the most regrettable thing in modern history."

Father Coughlin passed through Albany on his way to Great Barrington, Mass.

"No matter how bitter our animosity may be," said Father Coughlin, "in a democracy such as ours we should never have recourse to bullets to settle political disputes. Out motto must always be 'ballots, not bullets.'"

Death Of Long Seen As End Of Huey's Empire

None Left In His Regime Likely To Carry On As State Dictator

POLITICIANS ARE LEFT IN CHAOS

Seven Years Dictatorship Over State Of Louisiana Comes To End

(Copyright, 1935, By International News Service)

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 10.—Senator Huey P. Long's death at the hands of a fanatical assassin leaves Louisiana with not a single strong hand to guide the helm of state.

What the fate of the political empire Huey carved out of the bayou mucklands into a thing wonderful to behold will be, was raised as a major enigma by the senator's murder.

No Counter Authority

Huey Long, true to the mold of the dictator, was a man who would brook no counter authority. His political appointees were his men, to have and to command. He demanded implicit, unswerving obedience. He picked his men not for strength of character and high ability. Many actually gained favor because of their mediocrity.

With few exceptions no man in his party, not even the governor, who notoriously never issued a command or uttered an opinion without first consulting Long, has had training in decisive action or leadership.

In these exceptions may lie the future continuance of the power Long holds in Louisiana, a power absolute in the political sphere, by virtue of contitutional amendments that have been reeled off with machine-gun-like rapidity by a willing legislature in special sessions at a clip of a half dozen yearly.

Ruination Of Huey's Empire

Or it may mean the ruination of Huey's empire.

Will a strong hand arise from the party, and take over the reins that

ASSASSIN'S BULLET CAUSES HUEY LONG'S DEATH EARLY TODAY

Senator Dies In Hospital Near Louisiana State Capitol After Valiant Battle For Life—State Is Stunned By Death Of Political Dictator

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 10.—Grim, relentless fighter to the end, United States Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, who acknowledged no man his better, lost his final battle today. Death was the victor.

Senator Long

Marked down by the bullet of an erratic-brained assassin, the death he confided to friends he most feared, Louisiana's phenomenal political figure died shortly before dawn today as a heavy rain slashed the dark skies.

Death stole into the hushed, cloistered quiet of Our Lady of the Lake sanitarium, Catholic Hospital, that nestles in the shadow of the mammoth $7,000,000 skyscraper capitol Long erected as a monument to his regime, shortly after 4 a. m. C. S. T., (6 a. m. E. D. T.)

Four hours before, with every aid of science, a staff of 17 physicians, and his own stubborn endeavor, battling courageously, but to little avail, the red-headed boy from Winnfield Parish who became a modern dictator in his own particular realm of American Democracy, lapsed into unconsciousness.

He died in a coma, but surrounded by loving friends, nearly 100 of the men he had made powers in the Louisiana commonwealth, his closest advisers, and his family, summoned hastily as the tenuous thread of life ebbed away, surrounded him as he quietly passed away.

Family At Bedside

His beautiful wife, their three lovely children, Rose, twenty, Russell, sixteen, and Palmer, twelve, were at the bedside.

As the battle to save the senator's life closed in death, the members of his husky bodyguard, who loved this strange American political boss with the adored affection of a puppy for its master who whipped out guns and slew Dr. Carl Weiss, Jr., young eye specialist, on the spot, when he fired the fatal bullet through Long's body, wept piteously.

Gov. Oscar Allen, Long's highway commissioner when the senator was governor, a boyhood friend to whom Long gave the governorship when he went to Washington as senator, broke down.

Tears streaming from his eyes, the governor with Abe Shushan, New Orleans capitalist, brought news of the senator's death to reporters who had kept patient vigil throughout the night.

Long's chief bodyguard, swarthy, powerful Joe Messina, and his secretary, Earl Christenberry, wept freely.

Mrs. Long and the three children, held their control courageously. They were dry eyed but had to be supported to an awaiting automobile.

Announces Death

Shushan announced at four ten a. m. that the senator had passed away several minutes earlier.

Governor Allen, through tears and with trembling voice, made a brief statement.

"Senator Long's death will be a terrific blow to the state," he said. "His loss is irreparable and will be mourned throughout the nation."

Long's last words and thoughts were of his family and the boys and girls of Louisiana State University. Long raised the State University from a third rate institution to one of the foremost in the south, he was proud of its football team and accompanied it on famous jaunts. He

Hopkins-Ickes Feud Over WPA Up To President

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—Climaxing an undercover disagreement between his aides over works projects, President Roosevelt has summoned PWA administrator Harold I. Ickes, to Hyde Park, for a conference tomorrow.

The president's action, disclosed by Ickes at his press conference today, followed the rejection by WPA administrator Harry L. Hopkins of 2,000 PWA projects which had been approved by the PWA.

Hopkins, through whose hands pass the flood of applications from communities all over the country for construction projects under the vast $4,000,000,000 program to place 3,500,000 idle on employment by November 1, already has conferred with Mr. Roosevelt at Hyde Park.

Despite Hopkins veto of the 2,000 projects, Ickes indicated they may be pushed through to completion anyway.

"They are all good projects," he said.

He added their rejection leaves them in a "state of suspended animation" until a final decision.

Ickes took pains to make clear that no single individual can exercise complete veto over any project.

Under the president's order setting up the works program individual members of his administrative organization may attach certain "information" for the guidance of the allotment board, Ickes said.

Inaugurate New Telephone Service

New Dial System Will Be Instituted At Wampum Wednesday At Noon

Work has been completed on the installation of the new dial phone system at Wampum, which will be cut into service tomorrow at noon, District Manager Ray S. Tannehill stated today.

The new system will be cut in at noon tomorrow, and the event will be marked by a ceremony on the part of the district officials.

The new equipment which has been installed to take care of the service in the Wampum district is the latest development of the telephone engineers, Mr. Tannehill stated.

Look For Huge Landslide Of Shoppers Wednesday; It Is Suburban Day

Right in the middle of all this excitement about who is going to be elected to what office comes another announcement that will have Republicans and Democrats alike single shotting the idea. Its Suburban Day which comes tomorrow, Wednesday, September 11 and the polling booths will be located in the down town stores of New Castle.

There are no registry cards to sign, no special taxes to pay, and no party designation needed. Its the one day when shoppers can come down town and get the monthly suburban specials and the vote usually shows a landslide of thrifty housekeepers from all over Lawrence County.

Suburban Day has been a custom for some time now. And each time sees it increasing in popularity. From every part of the county, and from adjoining counties as well the shoppers have gotten into the idea that Suburban Day means bargains which is just one hundred per cent correct.

For one day you can forget the primary election. You can forget the candidates, and you can forget the cards and circulars that have cluttered up the porch boxes. But don't forget that the one day, Wednesday, September 11 is Suburban Day.

try has been down, but until now he has never been out. When they finally got him, it took hot steel. An amazing man, he was shrewd, frequently blustering, always alert.

Made Bitter Enemies

Huey Long made bitter enemies and fast friends. He nursed an abiding hate for his foes and stuck like a burr to his supporters. He was utterly relentless in his attacks, and to him there were no state secrets. He had a way of blundering along where others would not even tiptoe, and his tactics frequently bludgeoned foes into submission.

During the last few months, Long made more enemies than friends, principally as a result of his last filibuster. In this he ditched the third deficiency bill, carrying appropriations for dependent mothers, children and the blind. The Kingfish was a lonely figure indeed as he strode angrily from the senate chamber when congress adjourned. He blocked action on the bill in a fit of rage at refusal of the house to vote on the senate-inserted amendment providing a twelve cents a pound loan on cotton.

Born In Farm Family

The enigma that matured as the bombastic and colorful Kingfish started life in prosaic fashion as the son of a farm family, but he was not long a kinsman of the soil. He was born in Winn Parish, in Central Louisiana, on August 30, 1893. His first "learnin" came in the parish schools and at home.

Huey's father frankly relates, and his son would back him up, that shelling corn and hoeing potatoes were extremely distasteful to the budding genius. He was studious, and an enthusiastic reader, but was small, and his brothers did most of his fighting for him. When it came to debating and writing themes, however, Huey was in his element.

Young Long got into political hot water about as soon as it was possible to do so. When he was a student at the Winnfield high school, his penchant for organizing asserted itself, and soon he was the leader of a secret society bent on capturing political control in the school.

Sells Books

Just about this time, Long made the important discovery that farming was not the only way to make a living. An itinerant book agent came through the countryside, auctioning off his wares and peddling them from door to door. Huey, at fourteen, soon embarked upon a similar venture, and promptly made about forty dollars in less than a week, according to his several casual biographers and his own story embodied in the book "Every Man A King." The profits of this venture went into thin air when the buggy he had hired on credit was destroyed in an accident. But that didn't stop Huey.

Combination of the realization that he could persuade housewives to buy things, and the fact that he was expelled from school as a result of his secret society, sent Long out into the world as a salesman for the then new product of cottonseed oil. Thus was the career of the Kingfish launched.

Course Meteoric

From this point on, the Long course was meteoric, interspersed with disappointments, of course, but consistently upward, toward power.

The cottonseed oil period was prosperious, but brief. In a few months, Huey accepted an offer to go with a Houston packing house. In the interim, however, he had met and fallen in love with pretty Rose McConnell, whom he later married and who survives him today.

A matter of carelessness in expense accounts ruined the packing house salesman's Houston connections, and then Huey hit for Memphis, Tenn., where he expected to find a job. When he got there, the job didn't materialize, and for a while, the youngster was "on the bum, almost" as he expressed it. Finally, he got a job with a Memphis foundry, and stuck to it until November 11, 1911, when he was off again, this time at his own volition, aboard a freight train bound for Norman, Oklahoma.

Sells Groceries

The Norman expedition lasted just six months, during which Long earned a precarious living selling groceries for wholesalers, and studying law at the State University. During that time Huey entered politics seriously, as a college freshman, fighting the Woodrow Wilson machine with an organization of his own which backed Champ Clark. In June of that year, he returned to Memphis, where he found a position as a salesman, and in April, 1912, married Miss McConnell and set up housekeeping.

At this point, young Long was getting along swimmingly, but when 1914 came, the bottom dropped out of his markets in the south, and Huey again turned to his native Winnfield, accompanied by his young wife and four hundred dollars which he had saved. In Winnfield, he borrowed another four hundred from his brother Julius, and went to New Orleans, where he again tackled law, at Tulane University.

Admitted To Bar

Seven months more of drudgery, and Huey Pierce Long had conquered a three year law course, and on May 15, 1915, he passed a special law examination and was admitted to the bar. He immediately returned to Winnfield, and hung out his shingle.

Long did not go to war. He had other plans. He frankly said that he would have picked up the flag and yelled, "Come on boys," had it been necessary, but he did not feel that it was. He stayed home and worked hard.

The entrance of the kingfish into the realm of actual politics was somewhat spectacular, but did not occasion anything like the sensation it deserved, for it signalled the start of an extraordinary career and the beginning of the Long regime in Louisiana's seats of the mighty.

Huey found that, at 24, he could not run for the senate, but that there was no minimum age requirement for the position of railroad commissioner. So he set about winning this position, pitting himself against the well entrenched commissioner Burk Bridges.

It was here that Huey's months of peddling stood him in good stead. To the surprise of every one, he defeated Bridges, and moved with his wife to Shreveport, a railroad commissioner of the state of Louisiana.

Starts Political Career

It was as railroad commissioner that Long started his lasting feud with Standard Oil, and this feud, strangely, led to his entrance in the lists of a gubernatorial candidate in 1923, against Hewitt Bouanchaud and Henry Fuqua. Long didn't win, but he stopped what had been statewide amusement at this youngster, just turned thirty, who dared buck the state or the New Orleans political machines.

The defeat in 1923 didn't stop young Huey, and four years later, Long whipped Riley Wilson and was elected governor. At this point, his real troubles began, and, by the same token, his swift upward progress took on a spurt.

A year and sixteen days after his election, Long was battling against efforts to impeach him. He had a narrow scrape, but emerged the victor, and with more power than ever. He then initiated, and has since pursued, a policy of driving through the state legislature measures which have given him an iron grip on the state government.

Appetizer For More Power

Each political victory which came to Long proved an appetizer for more power, and in 1930, he was given the Democratic senatorial nomination over the veteran Senator Joseph E. Ransdell, a bitter political enemy.

It was at this point that Long's genius showed itself as it had many times before. He learned that foes were planning to recoup their losses by gaining the gubernatorial job when he left for the senate. The kingfish—they called him the kingfish by then— quickly turned about and refused to give up his position until January 25, 1932, when he was assured that his man, Governor O. K. Allen, had the state job tightly within his grasp.

Start As Roosevelt Ally

Huey came on the national political stage an ally of President Roosevelt, and he himself has many times told how he battled for the former New York governor. But this alliance was not to be. Soon, Huey was accusing the president of breaking faith with his platform. The Louisiana patronage was taken out of his hands by the administration, the breach between the new deal and Huey Long widened. The close of the kingfish's career found him a bitter enemy of Mr. Roosevelt, and vowing vengeance.

Long has been no respecter of title or position. He battled his enemies viciously, whether the enemy involved was a police sergeant or the president of the United States. He did not mince words. Frequently he drew the verbal ire of the senate's Democratic leader, Senator Joseph T. Robinson. Frequently, administration exponents in the senate protested that Long was a vengeful, raving madman. He took it all, and gave them as good as they sent.

The kingfish was a man of stubborn dogma. He had his convictions, good or bad, and he stuck to them. Whatever is the sum of the man, he was unique. As the old saying goes, they made him and threw the mould away.

slipped from the grasp of this phenomenal figure of the American political arena when death came shortly before dawn today, or will Long's singular contribution to the history of political machination unparalleled fall to pieces of its own weight, with the single supporting beam gone? Or will rival chieftains tear the Long machine apart in outbreak of internecine warfare over the spoils?

These questions filled the speculative mind in Louisiana today, even as the state prepared to pay reverence to the dead statesman.

Seven Year Dictatorship

Senator Long's death slammed the gates down on a seven year dictatorship, begun when a young upstart state railroad commissioner became governor.

Senator Long turned one of the shrewest, adept and active minds in American political history to bear on the problem of gaining complete mastery of his state.

First governor, he became the Cardinal Richelieu of the American political scene, stepping into the senate with an electoral machinery that couldn't fail, and setting up a puppet governor and legislature to control at will.

But, unlike Richelieu, who moved in silent and devious ways, Long took toyish delight in amazing pranks that kept his name in headlines constantly.

THIRD PARTY IS DEALT BLOW BY DEATH OF LONG

calculated to hurt the Democrats more than Republicans.

But the leader had to be Huey himself. Dr. Townsend is too old. Father Coughlin is a cleric whose robes constitute an automatic barrier to political leadership. With Huey gone, the leftists scan the political horizon to find it pretty well deserted so far as effectual leadership is concerned. Out of the ashes may arise an insurgent Messiah, but nobody would discern him today.

Prevents Greatest Test.

It will be long-debated question of just how far Huey might have got with his third party movement. He made himself dictator of Louisiana by shrewd utilization of Louisiana's peculiar political set-up, its Napoleonic code and its archaic laws which concentrate enormous powers in the executive. It is questionable whether in another state Huey could have got so far.

His appeal was especially pitched to the small farmer, the day laborer, the man from the forks of the creek. The assassin's bullet that struck him down prevented the greater test of his political pulling power—in the great cities, and in the states that lie outside the provincial delta. Now it can never be known just how far Huey could have gone with his share-the-wealth and every-man-a-king evangelism.

The mantle that he wore has dropped from his shoulders. And at the moment, the politicians are unable to see any other shoulders that it would fit.

TWO QUEEN ESTHER GIRLS SHARE HONORS

Most interesting, was the meeting Monday evening held in the home of Miss Kitty Hopper, on Marshall avenue, for members of the Queen Esther Class of the Third United Presbyterian church, with Mabel Kocher, Reba Sines and Mrs. Wayne Sines as associate hostesses. The occasion marked their first fall meeting of the season, with Mrs. Bernard Hook, teacher in her capacity, and was featured in honoring two of their number.

The meeting was called to order by vice-president, Miss Hopper, and Mrs. Thomas Baskeyfield was in charge of devotionals. At this time, Miss Pearl Colnot, president of the class for the past five years, handed in her resignation owing to ill health. She will be greatly missed by the class members, and her work will be carried on by Mrs. John Kenehan, who was apointed to fill this vacancy until the final election in March, 1936.

After business items were given consideration, those in attendance honored two of their number, the first being Miss Laura Mooney, who will leave Saturday for the Moody Bible Institutute in Chicago, Ill. Miss Kitty Hopper presented her with a lovely reading lamp in behalf of the class, and she responded with fitting remarks. The next came as a complete surprise to Miss Reba Sines, a bride-elect of the fall, when she was handed a telegram giving instructions which led her to the front veranda, where she found two huge baskets containing a number of attractively wrapped packages. When opened, she discovered each was to be placed in her new home. Miss Sines will wed Rev. Donald Zimmerman, of Crawfordsville, Ia., where they will reside.

Entertainment of the evening was in charge of Betty Gray and Peggy Fox. Special welcome was extended Jean Gilson and Gretta Nesbitt, former members, who have again been included in the circle.

At a seasonable hour, a delicious repast was served to thirty-five guests by the hostesses. The next meeting of the class will be held on Monday, October 7, with Mrs. Jack Leonardson, Mrs. Charles McDermott, Mrs. Lloyd Keely and Miss Dorothy Kay, hostesses. The place will be announced later.

Amity Club

Tonight at 8:00 o'clock, Miss Mary Bullano, of East Home street, will entertain members of the Amity club.

SHENANGO CHOIR O. E. S. HONORS LOIS MARTIN

Choir members of Shenango chapter No. 333, Order of the Eastern Star, assembled in the home of Mrs. Freda Drumm, West Garfield avenue, Monday evening, with Mrs. Lillian Edmunds and Mrs. Mildred Doerr as joint hostesses.

The regular rehearsal under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Buckner, was followed by a contest in bridge, 500 and anagrams. Trophies for high schools were awarded to Mrs. Dorothy Clark, Miss Elizabeth Rees and Mrs. Thelma Propst.

At a seasonable hour the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Maude Montgomery, served a refreshening repast. The home was attractively decorated with bouquets of fall flowers.

The evening was brought to a delightful climax when Mrs. Thelma Propst presented Miss Lois Martin, an October bride-elect and worthy matron of the chapter, with a shower of beautiful gifts from the choir.

Mrs. Lucille Falls, associate matron, was a special guest of the evening.

MISSIONARY FROM ETHIOPIA IS GUEST

A description of her missionary work at Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia, was given by Mrs. Ruth Lobaugh Walker on Monday night to a group of Jean Hill Williamson Missionary society members of the Highland U. P. church who listened with rapt attention.

Mrs. Walker was the guest of the society at its monthly meeting in the home of Miss Bertha Dodds and Mrs. Edith Duell, Wallace avenue. Her address followed the serving of a tureen dinner at pretty tables decorated with colorful fall flowers. The serving was in the competent hands of the associate hostesses for the occasion, Mrs. Marguerite Pascoe, Mrs. Grace Wilson, Mrs. Myra Elliott, Mrs. Naomi Noss and Mrs. Helen Smith. Thirty-three women were present.

Miss Evelyn Mitchell was the leader. Mrs. Arthur Bernard sang several lovely vocal solos, accompanied by Mrs. Carpenter.

The next meeting will be in October at the home of Miss Elizabeth Parker, Laurel avenue.

Amerita Club.

Mrs. A. M. Perfiano of East Washington street will entertain the Amerita club members Thursday evening in her home.

DR. G. S. BENNETT HONORED BY CLASS

Dr. G. S. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian church, was honored Monday evening by the Bennett Bible class members, of which he is teacher, when they surrounded him in the church parlors in complete surprise, to remind him of his birthday anniversary. Sixty participated.

A novel "black face" minstrel show was the program of entertainment, put on by the class associates, that caused a riot of laughter. Following, all filed into the dining room where they took their places at the banquet table decorated in a color scheme of pink and yellow. A huge birthday cake surmounted with burning candles formed the attractive centerpiece.

The occasion was climaxed when Dr. Bennett was directed to a huge box that was "nailed" to the table, and in an effort to remove it, he kept pulling a string of handkerchiefs, cleverly arranged, the gifts of those gathered which was an added pleasure and another surprise, to the guest of honor.

The general committee responsible for the evening success, was composed of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Waite, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Jameson and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jones.

OPENING MEETING OF B. P. W. CLUB MONDAY

An enthusiastic meeting of the Senior Business and Professional Women's Club of New Castle, which opens the new season's calendar, took place in the third floor dining room of the Y. W. C. A. Monday evening.

Dinner was served at 6 o'clock to 52 members and their several special guests. The tables presented an extraordinary attractive sight and the decorations, as well as the souvenirs, gave the members an idea of what to expect on the program which followed. There were totem poles, dolls dressed in Alaskan costumes and various souvenirs from the biennial convention at Seattle.

Reports from the convention were the features of the program. These were made by Dr. Mildred Rogers, and the Misses Helen Duff, Theodora Pollock, Laura Blucher and Mary Scherger. They also told some interesting experiences of their side-trip into Alaska.

Some of the points brought up at the convention, they said, were: discussions of discriminative legislation and propaganda against employment of married women. Members of the B. P. W. clubs were urged to scan closely so-called "projective legislation," for women workers. Instead of protecting rights of women in business, it was stated, it often tended to force them out of business. Ninety-five percent of married women who are working are doing so in order to benefit their home and elevate their living conditions.

Each member and guest was presented with a token from the table decorations, at the close of the meeting. Special guests present included Miss Myrtle Allen, president of the Sharon B. P. W., Mrs. Artie Jones, of Sharon, Miss Ethel Gibb, of Oil City, and Mrs. Winthrop, of Lockeport, N. Y.

On September 23 the club will have as guest speaker, Miss Suzanne Beatty, a Pittsburgh attorney. Miss Beatty's visit and talk will be of special interest to the club members because she is a member of the local club and a former resident of New Castle. The meeting will be at the Y. W. C. A.

W. W. M. G. MEMBERS HONOR TEACHER

Associates of the W. W. M. G. class of the Third United Presbyterian church, held a birthday party Monday evening, in the home of their teacher, Mrs. Robert Vorous, which too, was in her honor and proved a complete surprise. She was prepared to conduct the usual business session, when presented with a beautiful gift in behalf of the class. She gave a most gracious response.

Plans were formulated for a Hallowe'en gathering to feature the October activities. Other items of interest were also given attention.

The evening was concluded with the serving of refreshments by Margaret Sankey, Margaret Bowers, Elma Badger and Mrs. Plummer Gibson.

MONDAY BRIDGE CLUB AT PINE STREET HOME

The regular bi-weekly meeting of the Monday Evening Bridge club members was held last night in the home of Mrs. Ralph J. White, Jr., on Pine street, with cards forming the main pastime. Novel prizes were carried off by Mrs. Phil Dickson and Miss Hazel Smith. Mrs. Midge Miller, who was a special guest, was recipient of a pretty favor from the hostess.

In two weeks Mrs. Clinton Glenn of Highland Heights will entertain.

"TRAVELOGUE" FEATURE OF CHAPTER 105 MEET

The first fall meeting of New Castle chapter, No. 105, Order of the Eastern Star, was held Monday evening in the east lodge room of the Cathedral, with an exceptionally good attendance. The usual business routine was conducted and afterwards, the assemblage was invited into the west dining room where an entertainment was presented.

This feature was in the form of a "Travelogue" and was orginal and interesting in every detail, causing no end of merriment. Those taking active parts, included Patsy Bilze, Mrs. Helen Felch, Mrs. Gula Keagy, Mrs. Charlotte Emery, Elizabeth Dietterele, Louise Davies, the latter who took the role of the "typical newsboy" on a train, dispensing with candies, and nick-knacks, and Mrs. DeLace Cole, who portrayed the conductor to perfection.

Adding further to the evening's pleasure, was an excellent talk given by one of their honored guests, Mrs. Ruth Lietzel, a returned Missionary from Pekin, China. She took the members on a most realistic imaginary journey from America, through all the ports, docks, and passages, over into China. Mrs. Lietzel is a member of the International Chapter of Order of Eastern Star, in Pekin, China. She related many interesting experiences in her lecture that held the close attention of everyone.

Refreshments were later served by Mrs. Gertrude Fink and her able committee, as the concluding feature. Mrs. Ethel Slaver was the fortunate winner of the door prize.

The general committee included the following: Mesdames Jennie Martin, Elizabeth Fleming, Berdie Braatz, Cora Crain, Alice Bevan, Bessie Fulkerson, Ruby Bright, Novella McElroy, Icey Burkholder, Margaret Hammond, Martha Brown, Grace Fleming, Cora Cole, Florence Campbell, Edna Jenkins and Edith Pearce.

SUBURBAN DAY

All through the paper today you read announcements of Suburban Day, which means bargains for shoppers. Bargains bring to mind thrift and economy in the home and should bring ideas of carrying thrift and economy into government.

The majority of people in New Castle are like myself, in the small taxpayer class. Getting taxes together on a home these days is hard enough, without having to spend more in experiments by the City Council. If nominated and elected to City Council, I pledge the voters a continued opposition to experimental spending, unnecessary spending, and to all forms of waste in government.

ASSASSINATION OF SENATOR HUEY LONG

AMERICANS were shocked on Monday at the news of the attempted assassination of Senator Huey P. Long, in the state capitol of Louisiana as the dictator was inaugurating another special session of the legislature for the purpose of adding to his grip on affairs of the state. And the nation was truly grieved this morning, when the news was flashed across the country that the bullet wound had proven fatal.

All day yesterday the hope was expressed nation-wide that the wounds of Senator Long would not prove fatal. It is a matter of universal regret that such a thing as this assassination was perpetrated. While there are millions of Americans who were opposed to the political philosophy and program of Huey, they have no part in any such program of direct action for elimination of their opponents as that which took place in the Louisiana capitol. The American people believe that the solution of their problems, difficult as they may be, is to be found in the rule of reason and the ballot, and there is no condoning in any way of such action as the slaying of Mr. Long.

Senator Long will go down in history as holding a unique place in the affairs of this nation. His sudden death halts the program at a time when it was nearing its height. Without the leader, the regime will probably soon cease to exist, for it was the creation of one man and his political machine. If Senator Long had survived the assassination attempt, his martyrdom would probably have resulted in a much greater influence, at a time when his program was rapidly slipping in the nation at large.

But, regardless of attitude on the ideas and ideals of the "Kingfish" there is genuine sorrow throughout the nation at the death of Senator Huey P. Long.

BUSY TOURING SEASON ENDING

Not in five years have Americans been busier going places and seeing things than in the vacation season just about to close.

Vacationing seems to be one of our big industries. This season, Uncle Sam's statisticians say, we will have spent more than five billion dollars in holiday and vacation travel. More than four million people—the greatest number in our history—will have visited the National Parks before the close of September.

Gypsying through scenic America is made easier by a number of things—stream-lined and air-conditioned trains, fast going by airplanes, slower but more intimate bus and boat travel, and finally, the open road. According to Thomas H. McDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads, if all the roads and streets built by federal funds in the past two years were placed end-on-end they would encircle the earth at its portly waistline, the equator.

FAMILY PLANES

After aviation got a good start predictions were freely made that it would not be long until airplanes would be as numerous as autos.

Though there was little scoffing at the predictions, they were not taken very seriously as far as the immediate future was concerned. The majority of individuals believed that such a time would come, but did not expect it until many years had passed. They forgot that aviation is developing at miraculous speed.

The trend toward the day when almost every family will possess its plane is to be seen in the Department of Commerce assisting in the development of a plane that can be sold for less than $1,000. The quest is for a plane that is practically fool-proof and that can be safely flown by the average person. If a mechanical device which can move at high speed through the air yet be fool-proof and not prove a menace to those who are on the ground can be developed the impossible will have been achieved.

THOSE PREHISTORIC CRAPSHOOTERS

Was the American Indian conquered by the white man's vices or did he just lose the country on a throw of the dice? The Nebraska Historical Society has reported the finding, among Indian relics, of plum seeds with the peculiar and significant markings of dice. Whether the braves ever sat around the camp fire muttering, in the words of the press correspondent, "Papoose needum shoes," is a matter which history does not divulge. But stranger things have happened.

The fact is, of course, that dice in one form or another have been found in the tombs of Egypt, of classic Greece, of the Orient. Of the Romans it is said that Mark Antony wasted his time at Alexandria with dicing and, according to Suetonius, the Emperors Augustus Nero and Claudius were addicted to this form of gambling.

In view of the long and exciting history of dice, it would indeed be strange if the American Indians did not utilize this means of diversion in the long winter evenings scalping profits from each other before they acquired the habit of scalping white men.

UNIFORM DRIVING LAWS NEEDED

One of the greatest barriers to fair and efficient enforcement of traffic laws is the lack of uniformity in the traffic codes of different states and towns.

As one traffic authority recently pointed out, when he drives from one state to another, he doesn't have to stop and change his nickels, dimes and dollars into other and different kinds of money; but, if he wishes to operate his car in accord with the law, he must at once revise his driving habits. He leaves a state where the maximum speed allowed is 40—and then must remember that now he must hold his car down to 30. He has been accustomed to traffic lights and signs placed on corners—now they are overhead in the middle of streets where he is liable to miss seeing them entirely.

Suppose that motor car manufacturers pursued the same practices as many cities and states. Suppose a man who had been driving the Smith car wanted to trade it in for the new Jones model, and discovered that it had a different kind of transmission, required a different kind of fuel, and presented major points of difference in other respects. Such a policy would be no more absurd than is the existing policy of our governmental units in adopting traffic codes that are utterly at variance with those of a town or state 10 miles away.

The Uniform Vehicles Code and Model Municipal Ordinance, prepared by traffic experts, could and should be adopted by every town and city. This would not only give the motorist a break—it would immensely expedite the efficiency of our police and traffic patrol departments, and make an important contribution to the cause of highway safety.

THAT BOYHOOD HAIRCUT

I wonder what became of it—that old-time barber shop
Where as a little fellow for a hair cut I would stop?
The price was then a quarter and it seemed an awful lot,
But today I'm sure 'twas little for the splendor that I got.
On the shelf before the mirror there were many things to see,
Which, before the barber finished,
were all lavished onto me.

I wonder if I'll ever be as nice to see again
Or a sickly sweet with perfume
as I used to be back then?
I wonder if I'll ever have admiring women stop
To stare the way they used to when
I left that barber shop.
And I wonder if I'll ever strut so proudly round about
As I did on those occasions when the barber turned me out?

He tucked a cloth about my neck, then cranked his mammoth chair,
And looking in the mirror I could watch him cutting hair;
But that was tedious business and
I scarcely noticed that Until he started greasing me to keep my cowlick flat.
I watched the jars and bottles and,
simple truth to tell,
I glorified in the rubbing and I gloried in the smell.

When at last the job was finished and my quarter I had paid,
Then with Lily of the Valley I was delicately sprayed.
With a fancy atomizer he walked around the chair
Till, like lilies of the valley, I spilled perfume on the air.
Though today I laugh about it, it was serious business then,
And I'm sure that I shall never be as nice to see again.

OPTIMISTS ARE OF DEFINITE VALUE TO THEIR COMMUNITY

There are too many persons affected by the present hard times and there is too much pessimistic talk on the part of others.

Too few are looking for hopeful signs; too many are dwelling upon the dark side of life today.

Probably you know some persons of good common sense who never fail to impress and inspire you by their hopefulness.

Of course, some are foolish and impractical in their outlook.

They make radical statements of improvements that are bound to come in the future.

But the world has been ailing a long time and it cannot be expected to pick up and recover rapidly, though the tide has turned for the better.

Impetus upward is much slower than going down.

A good start is a big part of the battle.

If you would join the optimists in your neighborhood, you would do a good job.

Every community needs hopeful, courageous people.

Give a bit of encouragement to the other fellow—he needs it.

Dinner Stories

INEVITABLE QUESTION

A farmer visited his son's college. Watching students in a chemistry class, he was told they were looking for a universal solvent.

"What's that?" asked the farmer.

"A liquid that will dissolve anything."

"That's a great idea," agreed the farmer. "When you find it, what are you going to keep it in?"

PREPARED

The Optimist—By the way, did you put my cooking outfit in the bag? I'll want to fry some of the fish for lunch.

His Wife—Yes, dear, and you'll find a can of sardines there too.

JUST A FORGET-ME-NOT

"Your neighbors are honest, I hope?" one asked the old negro.

"Yassir, dey is."

"But you keep that loaded shotgun near your hen coop."

"Yas, dat's to keep 'em honest."

WHAT SO RARE

Customer—I want two small hack saws, a pound of assorted nails, a nice oak handle for my hammer, and a pot cleaner for the misses.

Clerk—Sorry, my friend, but this is an old-fashioned drug store.

WHAT'S ALL THIS?

First Flapper—I think he's the swellest fellow I ever knew. And so suave.

Second Flapper—My boy friend smells sweet too.

NOT ARTISTIC

Angry Guide—Why didn't you shoot that tiger?

Timid Hunter—He didn't have the right kind of expression on his face for a rug.

TERRIBLE

Mrs. Gossipy—I understand your husband leads a double life; is it true?

Mrs. Bussy—Yes; he does two men's work at his office.

FAMILY SECRETS

Mrs. A—My husband has no idea what I go through when he snores.

Mrs. B.—Mine never misses his small change either.

BEST O' LUCK

"I'm going into the hospital for an operation on Friday."

"Good luck, old boy. Hope everything comes out all right."

IMPOSSIBLE

Johnny—Say, dad, why doesn't the sea ever dry up?

Dad—Because it's like you—it can't.

One interpretation of the act is that this man may be fined and sent to prison even though he does not sell the potatoes.

"Please suggest formal clothes to be worn by men to day-time affairs."—W. R.

Answer: The business or sack suit should be worn at all informal day or evening affairs.

At day-time functions requiring formal clothes, wear the following attire:

Dark oxford gray or black cutaway coat. Many men now wear, instead, dark oxford gray or black sack coats, which are perfectly correct, with the same trousers prescribed for a cutaway. Such trousers should be of gray and black stripe or black with white stripes. The waistcoat may be of black cloth to match the coat; or, in Spring and Summer, of white pique. To be technically proper, a high silk hat should be worn with a cutaway, although a homburg or a derby is preferable with the formal sack coat combination. Gloves should be of gray or brown suede or mocha. And any of the following ties are permissible: Black, black and white or gray bow or a black and white four-in-hand. Spats, if worn at all, should be of either white or sand linen; white if white waistcoat is worn. Shoes should be dulled patent leather or black calf-skin oxfords. A shirt of plain white (stiff or pleated bosom) with wing collar is in good taste. If the weather requires a topcoat, it should be a single or double-breasted Chesterfield, in black, midnight blue or dark gray.

The World At A Glance

Sum Presidential Situation.
It's Field Against Borah.
Seek Conservative Candidate.

This article, by Leslie Eichel, writer of Central Press' "World at a Glance" column, summarizes his series on possibilities for the Republican presidential nomination.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Writer Of Central Press' "World At A Glance" Column.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATION is crystlizing itself rapidly. The Republican convention of 1936 may duplicate the Democratic convention of 1932. It may be "the field against Borah" instead of the field against Roosevelt".

The chief opposition to Borah will be the Hoover-Knox forces. Governor Alfred M. Landon of Kansas will be in the background, in the beginning, ready to spring forward as a compromise candidate. That is the opinion of more than one political writer.

Herbert Hoover's choice (next to himself) undoubtedly is Colonel Frank Knox, the Chicago publisher.

UNEASY

The Republican party, in spite of its consistent and violent attacks on the New Deal, is uneasy within itself. For, like the Democrats, it has sharp divisions.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho must be looked upon as the exponent of a progressive force that may be more far-reaching than the New Deal. That, too, in spite of his defense of the constitution and his gibes at the Roosevelt administration.

The managers of the Republican party have no desire to be caught in the drift that is sweeping nations away from the orthodoxy that has been the anchor of the party.

It would spell the doom of the orthodox to choose "another Roosevelt".

On the other hand, the rank and file of the Republican party (as guessed from preliminary straw polls) is more eager for change than is the rank and file of the Democratic party. President Roosevelt literally is pulling his party by the scruff of the neck.

Perhaps it would be nearer the truth to state the matter in this manner: Within each party there is a liberal group which has joint aims with the liberal group in the other party. The group within the Republican party is more potent than the group within the Democratic party, but the leadership in the Democratic party is eminently more fascinating (which enrages the anti-liberals).

Republican managers believe the United States still is more conservative than liberal. Thus their endeavor will be to choose the most conservative candidate possible (who has a chance of winning) and offer a strong contrast to President Roosevelt.

Senator Borah would upset all this. If senator Borah wins the nomination he probably would have to conduct his own campaign. The Republican organization would be at a loss as to how to proceed.

ISSUE

The issue—as the conservative Republicaans desire to have it—would be Capitalism vs. Socialism. That would be simple, and, it is hoped, would attract a great many persons.

Issues, however, are not so simple as that.

Simplicity is confounded by the complexity of modern economics, plus the intricacies of a world-wide social evolution.

Every farmer, every worker, every business man talks economies these days. And the social problems that one group denounces are demanded by another group.

That, to a large degree, aids Borah. He can and does talk on every side of social and economic problems. Whether what he says is helpful to a solution is another matter. But, when he denounces, he gives an alternative.

The extreme conservatives are not so fortunate. They can give no answers except to turn the clock back to 1928—pre-Hoover, pre-Roosevelt.

WHO WILL WIN?

Who will come out victor in the Republican convention?

No one knows.

It would be a pretty pass, though, if some Progressive Republican should cop the nomination because there were too many conservatives in the field.

Thus, one may look for a coalition of Republican conservatives—a coalition which may include Hoover, Knox, Vandenberg, Landon. They will unite to stop Borah—or "somebody worse".

ANXIOUS ENQUIRER

Uncle Sam has all kinds of vextious problems to solve for his subjects. A sample was a letter received in Washington from Frances Lundquist, Brookfield, Conn.:

"Dear Uncle," wrote Frances, "what shall I do about it? A field mouse, with long ears and big eyes has made a nest in my mail box, and every time I lift the top I disturb him and he disturns me—and how! I had to leave this post card on top."

The letter was referred to the Postoffice Department, which in turn passed it on to the superintendent of rural mails service, who is said to be expoert in solving field mouse and allied problems.

Writing Wrongs—You're wrong if you believe—

That after the battle of Marathon a martyr messenger ran 20 miles to Athens to pant out the words, "Rejoice! We Win!", and drop dead, thus inspiring the Marathon races that have been run ever since.

This legend owes its modern popularity to Robert Browning's poem Pheidippides. As we've said before, poets have distilled more nonsense than any other writers. Hereodotus, able historian with a propensity for such details, says nothing of Pheidippides' run and, he indicates that no heroic courier was needed; the whole army which defeated the Persians returned the same day to Athens.

If, by chance, Pheidippides did make such an unnecessary run, he was just one of those gadflies, not a hero.

Rain Maker Says Sahara Is Rich Land

Would Irrigate Desert With Tall Towers For Rain Making

(International News Service)

PARIS, Sept. 10.—The Sahara Desert is the richest agricultural land in the world. But it has never been properly exploited.

This is the opinion of Monsieur J. Dubosc, French scientist, who claims to have invented a machine for producing rain at will.

A "rain tower" of cement, that would rise more than 2,000 feet in the shape of a funnel, is the "rain machine" that Monsieur Dubosc claims would bring refreshing showers.

This tower, which is the small model he wishes to build for the Paris Fair in 1937, works on a hot air principle. Hot air would be sucked up the funnel and condensed around the top, thus creating rain. This hot air would be produced by the sun's rays on a glass house at the foot of the tower.

Monsieur Dubosc explains that this tower, which would be twice the height of the Empire State building, would not be sufficient to irrigate the Sahara.

"Half a dozen 'big' towers would be necessary but with them the Sahara could be fertilized in a short time," he stated.

CIGAR STORE GIVES OUT 'RAIN CHECKS'

(International News Service)

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 10.—Mrs. Jim Brown, who co-operates with her husband in running a cigar stand here, got tired of an old gag.

All too often, she noticed, persons invited to "have a cup of coffee" or a cigar, or something of the like, would use the wheeze:

"No, thanks, I'll take a rain check."

Now, if anyone makes the remark, he finds himself the possessor of a little square of cardboard, stamped "Rain Check" good for 5c in trade." And the inviter pays Mrs. Brown.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m., September 9, three arrests on charges as follows: Drunkenness 1, suspicion 2.

Before and after make a difference, as was evident in police circles here during the last few days. Elizabeth Conley, colored, attempted to strike a man named Mosbey, also colored, with a cleaver. The scene was in the rear of Moravia street. A brother of the said Mosbey seized the cleaver and not to be thwarted the woman seized a hatchet and inflicted a gash above the right eye of the intended victim's brother. After she had been incarcerated the injured man, vexed considerably, was in a punitive frame of mind but Monday the woman was discharged, the difficulty having been patched up.

Councilmanic proceedings yesterday were enlivened considerably by the appearance of property owners and other taxpayers who expressed themselves as opposed to any vote being taken to ascertain the voters' opinion relative to an increase of $1,500,000 bond indebtedness here for a municipal electric distribution plant. It was the first time property owners opposed to the move appeared before council. Should the vote on November 3 show that it did not carry, that will be the last action toward a plant by council, who pointed out yesterday that they were merely obeying the request of plant advocates. Everyone of them said he had withheld his personal opinion and in explaining legalities City Solicitor Robert White remarked that he does not intend to vote in favor of a bond issue.

Safety Director D. O. Davies stated Monday afternoon that he will not name a successor to Fire Chief Claire Stockman until October. The resignation which Stockman submitted to Davies has not yet been presented to city council. Stockman gave it to Safety Director Davies about Sept. 1. Davies and Stockman conferred but the resignation was not withdrawn. The assistant to Stockman is James Thomas . Although the office of chief of police falls within civil service the position of fire chief does not. Council has the option of naming a man from without the ranks without the man taking a civil service examination. As yet Safety Director Davies has not indicated who will draw his recommendation.

Having decided to conform to regulations of the WPA, council has asked the body for approval of projects which will, if granted, result in an expenditure of approximately $265,000. As soon as plans for the paving of streets can be revised approval of paving projects also will be submitted to the WPA. There is no likelihood of paving projects being put through this year. An entire summer was lost. Property owners along approximately two dozen streets wanted the thoroughfares paved during the summer period.

New Season Stage Show At Penn

Brown And Bailey Musical Revue Opens Program On Wednesday

The Penn Theatre starts its new season of stage attractions with the Brown and Bailey Musical Revue playing Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

This Revue, carrying a company of twenty-five people, features ten acts of entertainment and comes direct from engagements in large cities where it has received exceptional comment from press and public.

Included in the company are many people who have appeared in Broadway attractions. Among them are the headliners, Brown and Bailey, noted for their song and dance routine in New York shows; the Londonaire orchestra featuring the latest in rhythmic hits; petite Helen Bailey, who was featured in the recent stage hit "Strike Me Pink"; the Vernon Sisters, whose dance specialties are said to be of the best; Jerry Lynns, known to stage and radio as the girl with the million dollar voice of the "blue" variety; the Six English Rockets, a marvel of precision and rhythm; Doree and Dorothy, an amazing adagio team; Mildred Faye and Lucile Kaelin, together with the Streamlined Chorus Beauties.

According to M. D. Cohn, manager of the Penn, this attraction is comparative to the bigger shows on the road and brings to New Castle a type of entertainment rarely seen at regular movie prices.

The Brown and Bailey Revue plays three days only, starting Wednesday, and for the screen program OLD MAN RHYTHM with Charles Buddy Rogers, Betty Grable and others, a romantic comedy of college life, rounds out a program that promises much in entertainment.

Charles Randall Carves Old Ships

Some rather remarkable ship carving is on display in the Lawrence Savings and Trust lobby, the work of Charles B. Randall, III. The young man has carved out small models of three old-time ships, the U. S. S. Jeanette, which was lost in the Arctic; the H. M. S. Bounty, upon which a mutiny broke out and the mutineers landed on Pitcairn Island, and a Confederate privateer.

The carving is splendidly done and the models are true to design. The ships are attracting considerable attention.

CIGARETTES AND LIQUORS STOLEN

House of Savoi, South Mill and Maitland streets, was robbed last night of a small amount of cash, 25 cartons of cigarettes and 12 quarts of liquors according to a report made to city detectives. Entrance was made through a window.

Must Pay Tax On Slot Machines

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10— The nickel slot machine is going to pay its share of the state amusement tax.

Although the rate of taxation has not yet been settled, John Morlock, chief of the amusement and cigarette tax division of the revenue department, said today the state will collect some portion of proceeds from "slot" machines and bagatelle games.

Many operators, Morlock added, have already obtained amusement permits, while others are being notified to file applications and pay the tax. Morlock declared the law clearly holds that all "amusements" must be taxed one cent for each 25 cents or fraction thereof. Owners of the game machines have objected, Morlock said, to payment of one cent on each five cents played. The entire question, he concluded, is still "under consideration."

had plans for enabling every boy and girl in the state to obtain a college education, regardless of the humbleness of their surroundings, which death interrupted.

Shortly before midnight Mrs. Long was in the room, the senator in a moment of returning consciousness, saw her, and a smile lighting his wan face, said, "Oh, my sweetheart."

He reached up and kissed her and asked for the children, Mrs. Long left the room and the senator then spoke of the University and its students, his words bore evidence that he realized the end was near

"I wonder what will become of those boys and girls," he said.

Is Unconscious

When Mrs. Long returned with the children, the senator was unconscious. He last saw the children yesterday morning. He remained in a coma until death.

Death came, but only after the greatest battle of his amazing tempestuous career.

Five times the spark of life dimmed to a tiny glow as Long, his abdomen pierced and intestines punctured, lay unconscious since Sunday night.

Five times the blood of his prayerful political friends, who volunteered by the scores, flowed into his veins to whip the spark back into flame. The last time it gleamed momentarily, then winked out..

Long fought gamely to the end, aided by his amazing nervous vitality.

Surgeons resorted to blood transfusions three times in five hours to save his life. He was almost constantly in an oxygen tent, but rallies proved will o' the wisps, brief and flitting.

The senator's life was despaired early Monday night, though kept a close secret. For over eight hours, surgeons battled and Long's own grim determination kept the tenuous thread of life together.

Long had told friends he would live Sunday night after he was cut down by the small steel jacketed pellet from a small Belgian made automatic pistol, wielded by the hand of the mad young doctor, who was obsessed with the idea of ridding Louisiana of an oppressor.

But last night he knew the end was near and had his immediate family and friends summoned to bid them farewell.

Long's body will lie in state in the capitol. Funeral plans were not immediately completed.

Burial On State Capitol Grounds

Washington, Sept. 10.—Senator Huey P. Long will be buried on the grounds of the Louisiana state capitol, according to present plans, which were communicated to Washington today.

Seymour Weiss, close personal friend of the dead senator, telephoned the Washington Times from Baton Rouge this morning that the legislature would meet in joint session there tomorrow morning and pass resolutions permitting the burial on the capitol grounds.

Weiss said the body will lie in state in the capitol tomorrow and until 4 p. m. Thursday, when the funeral services will be held. The pallbearers will be:

Gov. Oscar K. Allen, Lt. Gov. James B. Noe, commissioner of Conservation Robert S. Maestri, Gilmer McConnell, Mrs. Long's brother, Supreme Court Justice John B. Fornet, and Col. Weiss.

Weiss was with the stricken senator until the end. He fought like a tiger to live, he said.

"He spoke to me at 1:30 this morning and said:

"'Seymour, later, later.'

"Of course, there was no later."

POSTMASTERS TO MEET

Postmaster Richard A. Steen will attend a meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Postmaster's association at the Penn-Grove hotel, Grove City, on Saturday. Cleveland's postmaster, national president of the postmasters' organization, will be the principal speaker.

New Regulations For State Taxes

Fourteen New Regulations In Stamp And Amusement Taxes For State

(International News Service)

HARRISBURGH, Sept. 11—If you want to learn to dance, there's the state amusement tax to consider—at the rate of one cent for each 25 cents cost of Terpsichorean lessons.

The State Department of Revenue made dancing lessons subject to the emergency amusement levy in a list of 14 new tax regulations announced by John C. Morlock, chief of the stamp and amusement taxes.

And not only dancing lessons but also instruction in boxing or "any sport taxable as an amusement under this act" will be subject to the tax from now on.

School Athletics Exempt

But music lessons will remain outside the pale.

High school athletic contests also were ruled exempt, but colleges and universities must pay as must private schools which charge a tuition fee—and that puts the tax on all the big college football games.

Clubs, which already must obtain an amusement permit under the act, must get a special permit to hold a dance for which admission is charged. Y. M. or Y. W. C. A.'S or Y. M. H. A.'S may hold events where proceeds are for charitable, benevolent or educational purposes without paying the state.

Five new regulations affecting the cigaret tax also were made, the most important requiring that tax stamps be affixed at the top or edge of the package so they will be destroyed upon opening the pack.

Sam Pistochio, assault and battery on Mrs. Frank Duncan.

Charlie John and Mary ohn, assault and battery on Constable J. C. Kennedy.

Eli Hilgar, assault and battery on Thomas Rough.

Extra Postal Force Not Yet Determined

Until a postal inspector comes here to survey anticipated needs, no announcement can be made as to how many additional employes will be put to work at the city's post office as the result of President Roosevelt's approval of the 40-hour week for postal employes.

Postmaster Richard A. Steen expects the needs will be determined shortly. The new work week, four hours shorter than the one now in effect, becomes effective October 1.

Y.M.C.A. Season Is Resuming; Gym Work To Commence Later

Boys' Swimming Classes Open; Hi-Y And Other Activities Start Soon

Regular fall swimming classes for boys have been resumed at the Y. M. C. A. and on the first Monday of October the regular fall gymnasium schedules for men and boys will be started.

Physical Director Henry T. MacNicholas, predicting another banner season of indoor physicial department work, announced that more space for activities will be provided this year. Numerous alterations have been made about the Y building during the vacation period.

Hi-Y activities, MacNicholas indicated, would get under way shortly. He will announce definite resumption of the five clubs later.

In the association's boys' department this fall the work will be operated under a "younger boys' division" and an "older boys' division" instead of the combined activity which has heretofore prevailed.

Panasewicz Serving In Cuban Waters Now

L. C. Panasewicz, recently enlisted in the naval service through the local recruiting station, is now serving aboard the destroyer Overton, according to Naval Recruiter M. L. Nixon, who is in receipt of a letter from the young man.

The destroyer Overton is now in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, for sports and rifle practice. After leaving this port the ship will go to Panama, pass through the canal and remain on the Balboa side for four days, then the ship will proceed to San Diego, where it will join the battle fleet. After joining the fleet the Overton will be based at San Diego as a home port, but will go to other western ports for recreation and leave parties.

Mr. Panasewicz is the son of Yusten Panasewicz, who resides at 1509 Hanna street, New Castle.

German-Americans To Meet Sunday

Members and friends of the German-American Federation of Lawrence county will hold a meeting at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the German Beneficial Club, according to announcement today by Secretary John Lienert. The German-American Federation of Lawrence county was reorganized some time ago with a large membership, not only here, but in Ellwood City and other towns in the county.

The American plan is the fairest. Parents train the children for 20 years and then the children train the parents.

Expecting something for nothing isn't new. The only new idea is that of getting it from Washington instead of Wall street.

SIGNS FOR SAFETY

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10—Highway officials here will erect 2,500 signs warning motorists of the proximity of public schools in an effort to provide additional safety for children this fall.

Parking of automobiles near school buildings will be prohibited as another precautionary measure. Many accidents, officials pointed out, occur when children dash heedlessly from behind parked cars.

Heavyweight champs and nations are licked in the same way. Just give them a lot of money and wait for them to soften.

FOR JUDGE

McELWEE

My qualifications are based on study of the law, experience both in the law and in labor with my hands as a farmhand and otherwise, and on what my friends have been kind enough to call a judicial temperment. By this I think my friends mean a tendency on my part, which I have cultivated for many years, to think twice before answering once, and a desire to understand every side of a problem before making up my mind. I think I am not, and I do not want to be a "yes, yes man," but on the other hand I am not a "know it all" man. Every grown person that I ever met knew some things that I did not know.

Book Of Job To Be Dramatized

Five Leading Ministers Of City Will Take Part In Masonic Presentation

TO BE PRESENTED ON TWO EVENINGS

One of the finest entertainments that has ever been presented in this city will be given under the auspices of the Valley of New Castle Consistory, A. A. S. R., in the presentation of "Book of Job", with five of the leading ministers of the city taking parts. This entertainment will be presented on Thursday and Friday evening, September 19 and 20, in The Cathedral.

Those who will participate in the presentation will be the Reverends G. S. Bennett, D. L. Ferguson, J. J. McIlvaine, S. E. Irvine and C. H. Heaton, who will be assisted by two readers, Mrs. J. F. Replogle and Mrs. D. M. Arnold, who will interpret the script.

The book of Job is conceded by scholars to be the finest literary production to come from the hand of man, in any language.

Orchestra Will Aid.

The Cathedral Symphony orchestra, with Thomas H. Webber at the Greer Memorial organ, under the direction of Judy Sypher, will interpret a musical program in keeping with the production. The coming event promises a cultural treat, long to be remembered.

The historical background of the book of Job represents one of the oldest periods in Hebrew history. Job, from whom it takes its name, was a patriarch distinguished for his integrity and piety, his wealth, honors and domestic happiness; whom God permitted, for the trial of his faith, to be deprived of friends, property and health, and at once plunged into deep affliction.

He lived in the land of Uz, lying, it is generally thought, in eastern Edom, probably not far from Bozrah. The name and history of Job are spread through the east. Arabian writers mention him, and many Mohammedan families perpetuate his name.

The book seems to allude to the flood, but not to the destruction of Sodom, the exodus from Egypt, or the giving of the law. No reference is made to any order of the priesthood, Job himself being the priest of his own household, like Noah and Abraham.

There is allusion to the most ancient form of idolatry, star worship and to the earliest mode of writing.

As to the authorship of the book, many opinions have been held. It has every appearance of an original composition, and its author must have been a Hebrew. It exhibits, moreover, the most intimate acquaintance with both Egyptian and Arabian scenery, and is in the loftiest style of oriental poetry.

It presents a beautiful exhibition of patriarchal religion. It teaches the being and perfection of God, His creation of all things, and His universal providence; the apostasy of and guilt of evil spirits, and of mankind; the mercy of God, on the basis of a sacrifice, and on condition of repentance and faith, the immortality of the soul and the resurrection of the body.

The main problem discussed in Job is, Is the justice of God in suffering the righteous to be afflicted, while the wicked prosper? It is settled by showing that, while the hand of a just God is manifest in this providential government of human affairs, it is his sovereign right to choose his own time and retribution both to the evil and the good, and to subject the graces of his people to whatever trial he deems best.

In these times of doubt and discouragement, despair for many of us, the philosophy of Job and his counselors is surely applicable, presented in this dramatic form, with appropriate music.

The production is presented free to the public, and Consistory members, by the Scottish Rite Consistory for the cultural development of the city.

Do you tire easily?

no appetite? nervous? losing weight? pale?
then don't gamble with your body

IF your physical let-down is caused by a lowered red-blood-cell and hemo-glo-bin content in the blood—then S.S.S. is waiting to help you... though, if you suspect an organic trouble, you will, of course, want to consult a physician or surgeon.

S.S.S. is not just a so-called tonic. It is a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also has the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin of the blood.

This two-fold purpose is important. Digestion is improved... food is better utilized... and thus you are enabled to better "carry on" without exhaustion—as you should naturally.

You may have the will-power to be "up and doing" but unless your blood is in top notch form you are not fully yourself and you may remark, "I wonder why I tire so easily."

Let S.S.S. help build back your blood tone... if your case is not exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of appetizing food... sound sleep... steady nerves ...a good complexion... and renewed strength.

S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two sizes. The $2 economy size is twice as large as the $1.25 regular size and is sufficient for two weeks treatment. Begin on the uproad today.

McDowell School Annual Reunion Well Attended

Former Teachers, Pupils, Neighbors And Friends Share Reunion Held At Old Homestead

Former teachers, pupils, neighbors and friends of the old McDowell school, assembled Saturday for their annual reunion at the McDowell homestead, a beautiful but quaint structure nearly a hundred years old. A good attendance marked the occasion.

A basket dinner was served at noon at tables placed in the shade of huge old trees surrounding the grounds. In this setting a picture of the entire asseblage was taken. Following, a short business meeting was held, and impromptu talks appropriate to the occasion, were heard from several of the guests. Mrs. McDowell who is in her 89th year, gave an amusing and humorous demonstration of an "old time method" of spelling under the direction of Thomas Berry, the first county superintendent of Lawrence county. This was one of the many features that took place.

C. A. Simington of Cresline, O., who taught in the school 49 years ago, was greeted by several of his former pupils. Mrs. Louella Martin Jordan of New Castle, and Guyla McDowell, a teacher of Geneva College, spoke. Others were James H. Gilfillan of Pulaski road, Mrs. Margaret Houston of East Brook, and Thomas Hinkson of New Castle.

Lewis McConahy entertained the children in attendance with a program of games. Other diversions for the elders, added to the day's success. A memorial was paid in behalf of the late Mac McReady, who had always been present at these functions.

Officers elected for the ensuing year, were George W. Patterson, president; A. M. McConaghy, vice-president; Mrs. Emma McDowell, secretary; Mrs. Margaret Houston, treasurer.

The reunion in 1936 will be held at the same place, on the first Saturday of September.

North Carolinans' Drinks Uncurbed Via Local Option

State Which Twice Opposed Repeal Now Same As Wet

(International News Service)

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 10.—North Carolina, one of the two states which voted and failed to ratify the 21st (prohibition repeal) amendment, has gone virtually wet, providing a turnabout as surprising as that in Texas.

South Carolina, the other voting but non-ratifying state, has repealed its own state prohibition law since.

The repeal ratification in North Carolina was voted down way back when approving the 21st amendment was a definite practice among state legislators and voters in general. Beer of the 3.2 variety was legalized, but voters twice defeated state repeal.

The legislature passed unexpectedly last spring a bill permitting local option on the prohibition question in 17 counties in the eastern part of the state which had been wet before prohibition. In case of repeal victories, counties were to operate liquor stores.

During the last weeks in July 16 counties held referenda and voted repeal. Forty county liquor stores opened in these counties.

The drys suffered a further setback when the attorney general ruled manufacturers of liquor could advertise in newspapers which circulated in so-called dry as well as wet counties, though liquor stores cannot advertise.

While it still is technically illegal for persons to transport liquor purchased in a wet county into a dry county or through one or several dry counties, there is no record of an arrest for transporting liquor legally purchased from a county liquor store and none is expected.

Consequently the wet counties are attracting good business from neighboring arid communities.

Law permits importation of a maximum of four quarters per person into any county of the state, wet or dry, from other states. Since the highway patrol is prohibited by law from making arrests for transporting liquor unless the driver is violating the motor vehicle laws, and since none of the sheriffs have motorized forces, no attempt on the part of local officers to enforce what is left of the state prohibition law is expected.

U. S. PARCEL POST 'FATHER' RETIRES

(International News Service)

FINDLAY, O.—Father of the present parcel post system is the claim of Charles A. Saunders, Findlay postmaster, recently retired.

At the suggestion of Mr. Saunders, Washington post office officials in 1910 granted the Findlay post office $6 to hire a horse and buggy to deliver Christmas parcels. They also instructed him to make a detailed report of the results of the plan.

So pleased were post office department officials with his report that the following year other postmasters were instructed to do likewise.

Mr. Saunders retired after 46 years in the postal service. He is credited with securing Findlay's new post office building and playing a part in having the entire rural delivery system of his county reorganized.

Transient Relief Will Be Halted

Orders Go Out To Halt Transient Relief After Midnight September 20

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Seeking to absorb all employable transients under the works program, the FERA today ordered state administrators to accept no more transients for relief after midnight Sept. 20.

This type of relief will be curtailed throughout the country through this method of not taking in new cases. Existing transient shelters and camps will not be discontinued on that date, however. Transient shelters in the cities will be discontinued in November, but officials said at that time other arrangements would be made for care of such unemployables now receiving relief in them.

The FERA hopes to provide jobs for all employable transients under the vast $4,000,000,000 works program. There are approximately 256,000 individuals receiving transient relief in the United States. Of these, 122,000 are transient individuals, 123,000 are members of 34,000 transient families, and 10,000 are homeless individuals being cared for in communities where they usually resided.

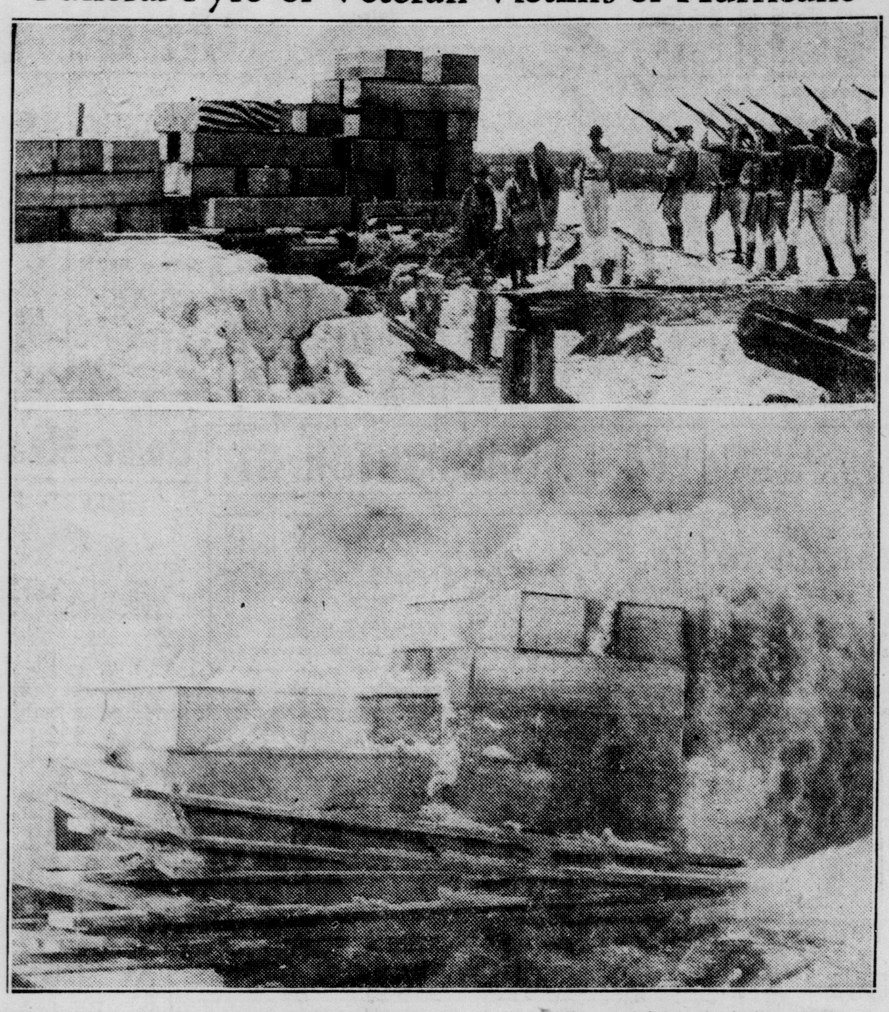
RIGHT ON THE JOB

Salesman—Any laces, collar buttons, almanacs, chimney cleaners, soap, razor blades.

Irate Householder — What the dickens do you mean, shouting here. Just when I was having a good nap?

Salesman—Will you buy a ten-cent dream book of fate, sir?

Funeral Pyre of Veteran Victims of Hurricane



Federal troops fire the last salute and the flag-draped pine box coffins containing the bodies of 46 war veteran victims of the Florida hurricane go up in flames at Snake Creek where they died in an FERA camp. Cremation was deemed necessary despite the request of the President that the veterans be given soldiers' burials in national cemeteries. (Central Press)

Famous Peace Rug, Valued At $150,000, Back

Owner Has Had It Underfoot All Over World

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—A rug that has been around the world 63 times and has been stood upon by presidents, princes, kings and potentates, is back in this city after an absence of 20 years.

It is the famous $150,000 "Versailles Rug" which was underfoot when the signatories to the momentuous World War peace treaty affixed their names.

The last time it was in San Francisco was in 1915 when it served as a resting place at Panama-Pacific Exposition for the famous Liberty Bell from Philadelphia.

It was in the same year that its present owner, T. J. Kuulujian, acquired it from a Pasadena millionaire.

The story of the "Versailles Rug" began in 1793. It was woven by an imprisoned French count to serve as his ransom to the Shah of Persia, so that he might go free and return to his loved one in France. Kuulujian is responsible for its wanderings since 1915.

It went to France in 1919 to adorn the floor of the Hall of Mirfors for the momentous ceremony.

President Roosevelt, Wilson, Taft, Hoover, Harding and Coolidge have walked on it, as have Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, General J. J. Pershing, Thomas Edison, Marshal Foch, Henry Ford, the Emporer of Japan, Lord Kitchener, and numerous other notables. Instead of autographs, Kuulujian has collected footprints on his rug.

Kuulujian intends to give it to the Smithsonian Institution in the event Armenia gains freedom from Turkish rule, an event he "wished" for in 1915 on his "magic carpet."

PAINTING EXHIBITION OPENS IN OCTOBER

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—Preparations are being completed here for the 1935 international exhibition at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

The exhibit, which shows what is going on in the art of western civilization, will open October 17 and will continue for about seven weeks, closing December 8. It is expected approximately 350 canvases will be on display in separate "national" galleries.

Contributing nations will number 21 this year, an increase of four over last year. Mexico, Argentina, Brazil and Chile, Latin American countries, wil be the "newcomers" to the exhibit.

GIRLS ADMIT THEY ARE POOR COOKS

(International News Service)

BOSTON.—There's nothing new in the fact that young brides know little or nothing about cooking, in these modern days. But when the fair damsels admit it, en masse, it is, at least of passing interest.

A survey was made at the state public works building where nearly a thousand women of all ages are employed and although not all were questioned, those who were, admitted they wished to enter the marital state, but had made no attempt to be proficient in catering to man's heart through his stomach.

One did admit a knowledge of cookery—she could make fudge!

OUCH!

Conceited Youth—I wonder why that young girl over there looks at me so much?

Young Lady—She has weak eyes and the doctor told her to relieve them by looking at something green!

But how it will hurt when youngsters discover they aren't entitled to something merely because they need it.

Historic Indian Battlefield Goes

Is Obliterated By Flood Waters Of Arickaree River

(International News Service)

DENVER.—Beecher Island, where 50 policemen held off the assaults of more than 1,000 Sioux and Cheyenne Indians in one of the most notable engagements of the troublous '60s, was almost obliterated by the flood waters which recently swept down the Arickaree river.

The famous battleground was situated in Yumas county, Colo., 15 miles southeast of the present site of Wray.

Roman nose, noted war leader of the Cheyennes, was killed, and the handful of soldiers under Brevet-Col. George A. Forsyth entrenched in hastily-dug pits on the brush-covered island, held out until a troop of 10th U. S. cavalry rescued them.

The island was named for Lieut. Frederick H. Beecher, who was slain in the battle.

The flood destroyed a monument erected in 1898 on the site of the battle. Graves of soldiers and scouts who died on the island were washed away.

A mud bar, washed up by the swollen torrent, is all that remains to mark the spot where the low island once stood.

WITH JUST A DASH OF GIN

Rookie—"You say the water we have at camp tastes terrible?"

Douglass—"Yeah, but Bobby and I have that fixed."

Rook—"How do you do it?"

Doug.—"First we filter it."

Rook—"Yes?"

3000 Families Move To New Jewish State

Soviet Promotes Separate Domain For Their Accommodation

By LINDESAY PARROTT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW—More than 3000 new families are settling in the Far Eastern region of Biro-Bijan which now vies with Palestine as a Jewish homeland.

This announcement made here on the anniversary of the establishment of the territory as a Jewish autonomous province in 1934.

Simultaneously new steps in the development of the region were detailed. Some 12,500 acres of swamp land will be drained and 17,000 acres of virgin soil cleared and set aside for agriculture this year.

A large mining and metallurgical school is to be opened and telephone service will be enlarged. OZET, the Society for Settling Jews on the Land, announced that it sent 100,000 roubles worth of agricultural machinery to Biro-Bijan as an "anniversary present".

Population of the district is given now as 55,000. The 1928 population, before the district was set aside as a Jewish province, was 28,000.

Ninety-four thousand acres of land were under cultivation at the beginning of this year, with 80 per cent of the farm population organized into collective farms. Industrial enterprises of the province now consist of mechanized gold mining stations in the valley of the Sungari river, a lime plant, saw mills in the neighborhood of Nikolaevsk, a garment factory, and plants for producing building materials, furniture and other wooden products, soap and tar.

Biro-Bijan today has 93 and 86 upper schools with a total of 10,121 pupils. There are two technical schools, one agricultural school, a school for teachers and two radio stations.

Part of the explanation of Biro-Bijan's growth probably is the "patronage" assumed over the region by various cities and important enterprises in the rest of the Soviet Union.

One of the functions of the county commissioners is to purchase materials and supplies for the county's use. In the county there are many merchants and dealers selling the same type of articles, all of whom are tax payers. It occurs to me that all of them are entitled to a share of the county business. If nominated and elected county commissioner it is my intention to see that county orders are divided among as many dealers as possible to the end that all of them may get some consideration.

Suez Canal To Stay Open

Not Likely To Be Closed Pacts Keep Waterway Neutral

FRENCH HAVE SAY IN MANAGEMENT

By C. DAVID VORMELKER
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—Once more the Suez canal leaps to the forefront of the news. This short route to northeastern Africa and India not only is Great Britain's "life line," but it is the short cut for France and Italy to their African colonies.

Today, the Suez canal is of prime importance in the threatened Italian-Ethiopian conflict.

Interests in Great Britain have urged closing the canal to Italian vessels because of Italy's troop movement toward Ethiopia and the subsequent threat to Egypt, English protectorate, and the Anglo-Sudan.

Closing Unlikely

But the closing of the canal is not likely to occur although the Egyptian government now has such action under advisement. The Suez is one of the canals that have been internationalized. As far back as Oct. 29, 1888, at a canal convention, eight powers signed a treaty insuring the neutrality of the canal. Great Britain, however is responsible for the protection of the canal. This power has been delegated to Britain by the company and by Egypt, which operates the canal by means of a mandataire concession. The canal is supposed to retrocede to Egypt in 1968.

While the British government owns seven sixteenth or 46 percent of the company stock the administration is largely French.

The British have only 10 of the 32 directors. The French have 21 (although the French government itself, does not own any shares in the company), and the Dutch have one.

Recently it was suggested in England that the British government sell its stock to British investors, who then could vote the 46 per cent of the total stock en bloc and obtain control of the company.

The board, despite its divided nationality, has worked in harmony—probably because the British and the French were on the same side in the World War.

British Are Profiting

The British government, although it frowns on Italian troop movements through the canal, has profited by them. At $3.50 per man Il Duce has been pouring men through the canal as fast as his transports could take them. During the last three months a total of $10,000,000 has gone to the Compaigne Universelle du Canal Maritine de Suez in dues for Italian ships, men and freight that have been shipped through the canal.

This includes the passage of 5,000 men rumored to have been returned to Italy suffering from dysentery, malaria and typhoid.

The idea of building a canal across the Isthmus of Suez from what is now Port Said on the Mediterranean to Port Tewfik on the Red Sea originated as early as the eighth century A. D., with Harun al-Rashid.

Later the Venetians presented a scheme to the Egyptians but the culmination of the plans was prevented by Turkish intervention.

Canal's Curious Beginning

In 1846 Prosper Enfantine organized a society which he called the Saint Simonist society, in France. Pointed toward the regeneration of the world the society included the construction of canals across the Isthmus of Panama and of Suez in its platform.

In 1854 definite negotiations were first begun for the building of the Suez Canal by Ferdinand de Lesseps a French promoter. He obtained the necessary permission from Said Pasha, then Viceroy of Egypt and a friend of Lesseps', to form a company to construct the waterway from sea to sea, without locks.

The company finally was formed in 1858 after civil engineers had made investigations and had presented their reports.

Most of the original capital stock, to the extent of 8,000,000 pounds was purchased in France and the Ottoman empire. Austria, Russia, England and the United States, were not financially interested at that time. In 1875, however, the British government purchased a block of 176,602 shares from the khedive of Egypt upon the advice of Lord Derby and Benjamin Disraeli, then British prime minister. (The necessity for a short water route to India became supremely important at that time.) Thus the British government became the dominating force, although French capital still has the largest investment.

Forced Labor At Beginning

Actual construction began on April 29, 1859. Forced native labor, consisting of Egyptians furnished by the Said Pasha and paid mostly in food and shelter, were finally dispensed with due to the influence of Nubar Pasha, Turkish foreign minister. In England also, strong disapproval of forced labor had been registered.

With construction swinging along, a direct route through the isthmus had been adopted.

Four dried-up depressions along this route were expected to lower the cost and time involved materially.

The total length of the two Bullah lakes, the Great and Small Bitter lakes and Lake Timsah was 27 miles. It was expected that no excavation would be necessary along this stretch. Actual construction resulted in the necessity of making greater or lesser excavations along all except eight miles of the 100-mile route.

Few Difficulties

No serious obstacles were encountered except the high hills between the Bullah lakes and Lake Timsah and the cutting of the rock at Serapeum.

Unlike the Isthmus of Panama, the Suez presented few difficulties because of the soil. The engineers rarely encountered rock; most of the soil consisted of sand or sandy clay or hard clay.

Likewise no locks were required because the Mediterranean sea and the Red sea are practically on the same level. Thus the project, although one of great magnitude, was in general a simple engineering problem. By means of many mechanical appliances and the rapid removal of dredged material, the canal was finished ten years after it had been started. It was opened to traffic on Nov. 16, 1869.

Original Cost $85,000,000

Although the first cost amounted to 17,000,000 pounds in 1869, the figure has been increased because of the continued work of improvement that has been carried on. Incessantly the work of dredging, widening and straightening has been conducted along various points on the canal's length.

At the dedication celebration on Nov. 17, 1869, the Empress Eugenie of Austria was present as one of the 28,000 guests. Her Almoner, Pere Bauer, delivered a sermon, in which he thanked M. de Lesseps, the Empress Eugenie, the Princess of Prussia and Holland, the viceroy of Egypt, and finally blessed the canal.

Britain Seeking Test For Health Before Marriage

Compulsory Examination Is Aim Of Advocates Of New Eugenic Scheme

By HOWARD BERRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Health tests and certificates of fitness for all persons before marriage is being strongly advocated in Britain.

A revolutionary scheme making the medical examination of couples before marriage compulsory in Britain is under examination by doctors in close co-operation with Public Health Societies.

All people about to marry, it is intended, will first have to obtain a certificate of fitness for marriage from a qualified medical practitioner.

These health certificates will be exchanged by engaged couples before marriage, and will have to be produced to the registrar or clergyman prior to the ceremony.

The scheme is revealed by Dr. C. Killick Millard, Medical Officer of Health for Leicester, in his annual report. Dr. Millard urges that the British Medical Association shall draw up a certificate which will contain all the necessary particulars.

Dr. Millard is the man who caused a sensation in Britain by his advocacy of "euthanasia" or "easy death" for incurables.

The chief details of Dr. Millard's scheme are:

The introduction of an official form similar to a life assurance proposal form to be completed by both parties.

Medical examination to be undertaken by doctors at a standard fee; if possible $2.50, but certainly not more than $5.00.

The setting up of a special "Committee of Appeal" to consider the applications of people who have been refused certificates.

"First of all we want to educate public opinion," Dr. Millard declares. "Our ultimate aim will be to make the certificate of fitness for marriage compulsory, but to begin with we shall ask for a number of young couples who will volunteer to be examined.

"The question of compulsion will have to be very carefully deliberated and carried out.

"The Eugenic Society has already in preparation the form to be used.

"Special stress will be laid on the question of any hereditary constitutional defect in either party and any health defect which can be transmitted to husband or wife or to their offspring.

"The general state of health will also be considered, but is not of such vital importance as the possible transmission of disease.

"If the doctor declines to issue an A-1 certificate, then the case will be referred to a central committee, which would relieve the doctor of sole responsibility for such a serious decision."

The whole subject of these medical certificates, an official of the Eugenic Society revealed, is to be dealt with at the meeting of the Society in October.

"The matter is arousing keen controversy throughout the country," he disclosed. Strong opinions are held on both sides. In Leicester itself, Dr. Millard's plan is warmly supported.

Strong support for Dr. Millards' scheme was forthcoming from Dr. Matthews, Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, London.

Dr. Matthews said he saw no reason why the system should not be universal in a comparatively few years.

"I can offer no objection on religious grounds," he added.

On Court House Hill

Jack Lubinsky has filed a suit at the prthonotary's office against J. Edgar Ellis and Mary E. Floyd, executors in the estate of the late James E. Ellis to recover $116.74, alleged to be due for farm labor.

Twenty-eight instruments of all kinds were entered at the register and recorder's office last week. Of this number 12 were deeds and 15 were mortgages. Two mortgages were to the Home Owners Loan corporation, one in the sixth ward for $1,637.15 and one in the fifth ward for $2,240.55. The majority of the others were to building and loans.

Motion to amend a libel in divorce has been presented to court in the case of Natale Prestipino against Mary Froce Prestipino. The original libel was filed on the grounds of cruelty. The amendment charges that the respondent had already a husband living, from whom she had never been divorced, at the time she married the libellant.

In the matter of the first partial account of John T. Prescott, administrator in the estate of Edward Garner, deceased, an order was made to advertise for audit by the court on October 5th.

Mrs. Clara E. Zeigler of Ellwood City, mother of Inez Jean Zeigler and Charles Franklin Zeigler, presented a petition to court setting fourth that Inez desires to take a course in Home Economics at the Carnegie Institute of Technology and Charles desires to take a course in electrical engineering, and asking that the Union Trust Company, guardian, be authorized to pay out $900 for the former and $500 for the latter. The petition was granted.

Registering Clerk, Thomas Edmunds, has a force at work preparing the registration books for the coming primary. The cards upon which the registrations were taken are being prepared in Alphabetical order, the first three letters of each name being given in the index. The cards are then inserted in loose leaf binders. They are so arranged that the election boards will be able to find a name quickly when it is announced by the voter. There will be less trouble in finding a name than under the old system.

Under the will of the late Fred Singer of this city, which has been admitted to probate at the register and recorder's office, decedent left all of his property, real and personal to his wife. Fred A. Singer, a son is named as executor.

By the will of the late E. J. Henderson of Ellwood City, his property is left to his brothers, Sanford F. Henderson and Herbert Spencer Henderson of the District of Columbia, Canada, for life. At their death it is to go to their children. Attorney R. W. Humphrey of Ellwood City, is named as executor.

Upon a motion presented to court today time for filing report of viewers appointed to assess damages and benefits to properties on the Youngstown hill in Union township, was extended until October 1st. Among the property owners who have filed claims for damages by reason of the widening of the road and changing the grade are Elmer E. Douglass, George B. Hart, Mary J. Jenkins, Rowland R. Paden, Rachael Bowden, Clair W. Badger and Louigi Cardullo.

SAVED HAY FROM FIRE WITH BALER

(International News Service)

XENIA, O.—It's all right to make hay while the sun shines, but Verne Gross, farmer, near here, went the old saying one better recently by baling hay while it was burning.

Discovering a fire in his barn he notified fire departments in surrounding towns, then started his baler working. Neighbors volunteered in pitching good hay to the baler and burned hay in another direction.

Net results: 25 tons of alfalfa hay baled, one large barn saved, 1500 bushels of small grains and 60 more tons of hay salvaged.

U. S. PRINTING SHOP IS HUGE ESTABLISHMENT

(International News Service)

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 10.—The U. S. Government printing shop set 2,241,746,000 ems of type during the fiscal year ending June 30, A. E. Giegenback, federal public printer, told the 16th annual convention of the International Association of Printing House Craftmen here.

Giegengack said the cost of operating the printing establishment at Washington was $16,278,000 for the year ending June 30 and the value of the product produced was $16,465,000. This was 28 percent more work than for 1934.

An appropriation of nearly six million dollars has been made for further modernizing the U. S. printing shop, Giegengack said.

LANTERN FLAME FROZE, HE SAYS

(International News Service)

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich.—Flames in Paul Bunyon's lanterns froze solid one winter when it was 68 degrees below zero and the only way he could put out the light was to break off the flames and toss 'em outdoors. The next spring they thawed out and burned the St. Mary's river in two.

This tall tale won the championship for Perry Allen of Shepherd, Mich., at the Paul Bunyon story telling contest.

Yes, with cotton at six cents the spinners could sell cloth abroad. But nobody could sell much of anything in the south.

CHILDREN GET GOOD LIGHT OUTDOORS
but what do they get in the house?

Good lighting is not always a question of amount of light—often times it is wrongly applied. But even in the event of inadequate lighting, the necessary added illumination costs but a few cents a month. What are pennies compared to good eyesight?

When the children play out-of-doors they have the benefit of a great amount of natural light. Now with the advent of fall and winter months, they must come inside to play and study—with much closer eye-use—under lighting conditions only a thousandth as much as sunlight.

Yet good lighting is inexpensive, especially under the new low electric rate. Far less expensive than defective vision, which is now so prevalent among school children. And there are definite guides available to prevent it.

Let us make a FREE survey of your home and tell you what amount of light science prescribes for every task. There is no obligation—no expense—for this service.

REVEALS STRANGE MARRIAGE PACT AT TRIAL

Martha Aber To Resume Stand

Seek Half Of Huge Estate Of Bachelor, Claiming Common Law Marriage

WILL ONLY LEFT $10,000 FOR HER

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—While attorneys revealed her past relationships with three men, careworn Martha O. Aber, 50, today was scheduled to resume witness stand in an effort to prove that she was the common law wife of Frederick J. Osterling, famous "bachelor" architect, and therefore entitled to one half of his $1,500,000 estate.

In almost inaudible tones the troubled woman told the court how she was married at the age of 21, then became engaged to another man after believing her first husband dead, and finally entered common-law relationships with Osterling after obtaining a divorce from husband number two.

Tells Of Strange Marriage

She told of the strange marriage that took place between her and Osterling, and how they kept it a secret for many months because of objections from her family who demanded a wedding by minister. It was an informal wedding at a dinner table, she said, when they both repeated the vows "without the benefit of clergy."

Buried in the past, the story of how during their first months of relationship, Miss Aber lived at her home at Markham, near Punxsutawney, and how Osterling used to visit her on week-ends, was also revealed.

Osterling left Miss Aber $10,000. The remainder of the estate was left to two sisters and a nephew.

Today

Something For Nothing.

A Ship Of Horror.

A Republican Idea.

Mussolini Is Packing.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

IN THE CATSKILL MOUNTAINS, where this is written and old Rip Van Winkle took his nap, you actually get something for nothing.

Beautiful spring water flows abundantly all year round, and nobody sends you a bill for it. It rises on the mountainside, flows through pipes, obedient to gravitation's law, and no intelligent politician has thought to put a meter on it.

The meter will come in time, or a government tax on "flowing springs," and we may reach a "doors and windows" tax, such as European kings once collected on the theory that doors and windows admit sunlight and air, both the king's property.

To this day, in Italy and France, you may see imitation windows on the walls of houses, arranged for ornament, but tax free, families sleeping without fresh air back of them.

TAXATION can be made a fine art. Once, in France, you were put in jail for collecting salt at the ocean's edge that meant dodging La Gabelle, the tax on salt.

Free water, while it lasts, seems strange in a land where you pay for everything, the obstetrician at the start, the undertaker or "mortician" at the end.

FRANCE discourages crime, and REALLY discourages it. The dreaded prison ship, La Martiniere, is on her way to the criminal colony in French Guiana with 773 convicts locked in eight strong iron cages in the hold, with iron bars, cement floors, wooden benches, hammocks, and overhead a crisscross of pipes that would fill the cages with deadly live steam, if mutiny broke out.

DISTRESSING scenes mark the prison ship's sailing, wives and children, brothers and sisters of the criminals taking farewell forever from those that they will never see again.

No parole board sits in French Guiana. Each man ordered to the ship receives a new suit of clothes, a blanket, an extra pair of wooden shoes. That, with perhaps a few books and packages of chocolate from relatives, constitutes their wealth, as wrists chained, the convicts march, single file, up the gangplank between rows of bayonets.

They go to prison, to STAY in prison.

It is a hard system, but being murdered on the American plan is also a hard system. In proportion to population, the United States has more than ten times as many murders as France. There may be something in their method, although justice should be tempered with mercy. If you say that to a Frenchman, he answers que messieurs les assassins, commencent, which means "let the assassins begin it."

THE NEW YORK TIMES says many Republicans would like Henry Ford to run for president of their ticket. No doubt that many Americans would like to vote for him, but there is MUCH doubt as to Henry Ford's willingness to transfer his operations from reliable machinery and metals to uncertain American politics.

Now past 70, although in appearance about 50, and as nimble and active as a squirrel, Henry Ford has many plans ahead for the next 20 years. Running for president is probably not one of them.

WHILE THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS talks peace and arbitration, Mussolini recalls his consuls from various places in Ethiopia, reminding you of the clergyman who had a call to a large city. His little daughter said.

"Papa is in his library, praying for light, and mamma is upstairs packing."

FERRERO, the distinguished Italian historian, whose life of Caesar you should read, writing in Geneva, safely distant from Rome, says the Abyssinian war convulse Europe. It may not, since England and France have no intention of being "convulsed" at this time.

Mussolini, who knows that well, possesses the philosophy of Jere Dunne, well-known New York rough and tumble fighter of the old Hoffman House days. No man ever beat him, and this was his explanation:

"When two men fight, usually both of them want to quit, and one ALWAYS wants to quit. I am never that one."

POPE PIUS, addressing a pilgrimage of World War veterans, says he sees "a rainbow of hope against the black clouds," and hopes for fulfillment, in peace, of all the aspirations of the Italian people. His words take you from this period of conflict and anxiety:

"We pray for peace, because we are the vicar of Christ, who is the King of Peace . . . as the vicar of this Divine Master, as the common father of all souls, we pray for peace."

IN A BERLIN suburb Germany's government erects a monument in memory of the late Theodor Fritsch, notorious enemy of the Jews. Herr Fritsch's anti-Semitic newspaper was called "The Hammerer," and the monument shows an alleged "Aryan" sitting on a toad's head, hammer in hand.

What an interesting poem Heinrich Heine, NOT Aryan, could have written about that.

A race that has survived the bonfires and tortures of the Middle Ages will outlast that monument.

FROM LONDON Miss Booth, ruler of the Salvation Army, sends orders to start a great, nation-wide "fight against sin." Meetings held in New York and elsewhere, accordingly, will doubtless be beneficial to those that attend. What an old fight that is! How long do you suppose it will last before the victory of righteousness is complete?

IT IS A FIGHT that started in the Garden of Eden, when Adam and Eve were put out for sinful disobedience. No fight could be more important than a fight to end sin, apart from mere increase of righteousness, for with sin would go crime, which costs America at least ten billions a year.

Freedom from sin recommends itself to Americans, especially, for in addition to being admirable, it would pay.

Stamp Club Has Meeting Monday

Last night, the New Castle Stamp Club held its regular meeting in the employees' room of the car barns, 32 South Beaver street. This meeting was in charge of the President, Glenn Montgomery.

The business of the club was transacted, following which the remaining hours were spent in viewing frames of stamps and in entertaining and instructive chat.

A number of frames were on display and they attracted considerable attention. These were made up by different members of the club and brought to the meeting for the benefit of the members.

The next meeting, which has been planned for Monday, September 23, will be a meeting of special interest due to the fact that an out of town speaker will undoubtedly be present to speak on some philatelic object. Stamp bingo will also be played for the amusement of members present.

LANDSCAPIST GOES TO PYMATUNING DAM

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 10.—Joseph David, Farrell, today was notified by Congressman D. J. Driscoll of nis appointment by Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes as landscape architect and senior foreman for the Pymatuning reservoir.

His first activity will be to lay out a landscaping program for the CCC camp now situated at the reservoir. David has landscaped several parks in this district in recent years.

The fate of the oil industry is left to gentlemen's agreements. Now all that is needed is the gentlemen.

Increase Scope Of FHA Loans

Loans Are Now Available For Modernization of Business Properties

TO GRANT LOANS UP TO $50,000

In a letter received by Director Marcus Feuchtwanger from District Director Theodore F. Smith of the Federal Housing Administration, the latter stated that the F. H. A. is now ready to go ahead with Insurance of Modernization loans for commercial properties from $2,000 to $50,000. This service is greatly needed because so many business establishments have allowed their equipment or buildings to fall into disrepair.

Under the $50,000 lending plan, money for modernizing apartment houses, hotels, offices, business or other commercial buildings, hospitals, orphanages, colleges, schools or industrial plants can be had.

The applicant, by the amendment, need not be the owner of the property though he must show his right of occupancy.

Loans for purchases and installation of replacement parts for eligible equipment and machinery are insurable, but a loan merely for the repair of a machine is not insurable.

The F. H. A. insures 20% of the aggregate modernization loans made by any one institution, up to $2,000. It is the purpose of the F. H. A. to encourage the granting of "Character Loans". The lending institution is, however, permitted to take other security, while above $2,000 is expected, the usual safeguard of good installment banking practice will be taken.

Director Feuchtwanger for Lawrence county, stated many applications for loans are being handled daily through his office in the Greer building where those desiring to repair or modernize their homes or purchase equipment or new construction can apply.

SHE SWALLOWS LIVE SNAKE BY ACCIDENT

(International News Service)

JASSY, Rumania—Middle-aged, stout Mrs. Olga Forascu, who went for her summer holidays in the picturesque village of Uricani in Moldavia, is recovering today from the gruesome experience of swallowing a live snake.

After a rather noisy rural dinner, she stretched herself on the grass and fell into a comfortable doze. Unfortunately Mrs. Forascu suffers from adenoids and kept her mouth widely open during her siesta. A little black domestic snake seemingly was attracted by the unusual cavity; anyway it crept into it. When Mrs. Morascu was awakened by a strange cold lump in her throat she gave a gulp that sent the snake sliding down her esophagus.

Mad with terror and pain, she was brought to the hospital. Nobody believed her tale until X-rays were made.

A difficult operation was performed and the snake was extracted, still alive.

Mrs. Forascu is now doing well.

Free Trains Suggested To Ease Traffic

Would Be Boon To Larger Cities, Sponsor Says

(International News Service)

DENVER—Free street cars or buses, with standing room only, is the solution of the downtown traffic problems of large cities, offered before the Midwest Transit association by Judge George H. English of the Missouri public service commission.

He explained:

"American cities are so constructed and American business habits are such that at certain hours of the day a large number of persons must be transported from one section of the city to another in a very short time.

"It is a physical impossibility to transport these people in private cars, taxis or even in the ordinary street car or bus. Too much space is devoted to each passenger."

The only furnishing in the vehicle proposed by Judge English would be a series of rods to which the passengers would cling until they reached a point just outside of the business district.

"No fares would be collected on the standing cars," he said. "There would be no stops to discharge passengers. The passenger would simply stand in the car until it arrived at the transfer point and then he would pay his fare on the regular car."

Free street cars would solve auto parking problems in crowded areas, he believes.

HIS GOLD STRIKE DON'T ENRICH HIM

(International News Service)

LEWISTOWN, Pa.—There's gold in them thar hills around here—but not enough to make anybody rich unless a bigger strike is made than that of Ibra Jones.

A farmer living in this hilly section, Jones picked up some gold-bearing ore in his chicken yard and sent it to be assayed. The report showed $1.75 worth of gold per ton—with the yellow metal worth $35 an ounce.

The iron ore found in the samples submitted by Jones was found to be worth more than the gold, and even the iron ore content was below normal for Pennsylvania mountains.

Pay Tribute To Early Pioneer

California Is Honoring Man Who Helped In Early Days

(International News Service)

RED BLUFF, Cal.—California is paying belated tribute to one of its early historical characters with the creation of a state park in honor of William Brown Ide, the first and only president of the California Republic.

The park will center around the Ide home which he erected on the Sacramento river near here in the late 1840's. The home is in an excellent state of preservation.

Much of the credit for California joining the Union is given Ide, but despite the prominent part he played in early California history his remains now lie in a lost and unmarked grave in Colusa county.

After California became part of the Union, Ide settled in Colusa county which then included all of the present Glenn county and part of Tehama county.

He was noted for his legal ability and powers as an arbitrator. Many early boundary disputes were left to him to settle. On one occasion he acted as judge, prosecuting attorney and counsel for the defense in the case of a horse thief. He argued both sides of the case and then found the defendant guilty and sentenced him to be hanged.

Later, he became the superior court judge and eventually was forced to take over practically all of the other county offices when those who had been elected refused to serve.

An old Colusa county document shows the payment of taxes by Ide, tax collector, to Ide, treasurer; attested by Ide, auditor, and sworn to by Ide, superior judge.

The proposed Ide park will take in about three miles of Sacramento river waterfront through the city of Red Bluff in addition to the site of the Ide home.

STOMACH CURE FAILS; HEADACHE ADDED TO WOES

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10. — Mrs. Joseph Branch wanted to be cured of a stomach ailment. She still has her stomach ailment—and a headache as well.

Two gypsies told the ailing woman that she could be cured by tying a handkerchief filled with money around her body. She did, Then they recommended that she place the money in her stocking because they had a bad dream which predicted a curse on her if the money stayed where it was. She did.

Mrs. Branch removed the stocking the following day as per instructions and found the money gone, and in its place a wad of paper.

SPRAYS ORCHARD FROM AIRPLANE

(International News Service)

BOYERTOWN, Pa., Sept. 10. — Floating through the air with the greatest of trees was a new version presented to this district by Larry Jones, Lancaster aviator and parachute jumper.

Jones demonstrated the feasibility of tree spraying by airplane when he equipped his plane with necessary devices and sprayed a five acre pearch orchard in a little more than five minutes.

Orchardists from other points witnessed the experiment, and if proven a success, they said, it may lead to a general adoption of this method of spraying orchards here.

RECORD WHEAT YIELD

(International News Service)

SUNBURY, Pa., Sept. 10.—Ninety bushels of wheat were reaped on a two-acre tract on the farm of Harry Epler in upper Augusta township. It was believed to be a record yield in Northumberland county.

NEW ENGLAND'S VACATION TRADE LIKE OLD TIMES

(International News Service)

BOSTON. — Remember the depression?

New England and summer hotel proprietors and others gaining a livelihood from vacation trade can well ask the question.

From 10 to 40% better than last year, this year's summer recreational business was the best since 1929, reports to the New England Trades Council show.

On three week-ends the higher priced Cape Cod hotels were forced to put out the "no vacancies" signs.

The American Automobile Association reports an increase of 30 per cent in the number of members routing trips through New England.

Maine had a 20% increase in requests for recreational information. Vermont and New Hampshire report that "business is better."

Rhode Island and Connecticut, too, shared in the general revival, cottages and summer homes being much in demand.

New England and America are beginning to play again.

ABSCONDING BANKER IS TRACED AT LAST

(International News Service)

DENVER—The flight that Edwin F. Morse, Denver banker, began 14 years ago with $78,000 of the bank's funds and a newly-acquired sweetheart, may be over soon.

A local businessman, returning from a visit in Mexico, declared he had seen the missing man living in poverty in an inland village there.

Morse, police records here indicate left Denver and his devoted wife on August 13, 1921, taking the bank's money and Miss Mabel Penfold. Their trail was lost in Texas but an extensive search was continued over a period of years.

The statue of limitations would not apply to Morse's case, police say.

Fog Lines Will Guide Motorists In Bad Weather

State Highway Department Placing Markers On Roadway

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—Furthering his campaign for greater safety of Pennsylvania highways, Warren VanDyke, secretary of highways has announced plans for the placing of over half a million feet of fog-lines to guide traffic in mountainous sections in murky weather.

The new markers will be of standard four-inch width and will consist of a continuous broken line marked in yellow all-weather paint. White lines of the same width will be used to mark the crests of hills and dangerous curves as had been the custom, with the yellow used only in other locations.

Thus drivers will be able, even in the heaviest fog, to follow the road with complete safety since yellow lines will signify a normal road condition ahead while white will designate hazards other than those imposed by abnormal weather conditions.

The success of similar tests in neighboring states prompts the trial in Pennsylvania. Results will be studied carefully and the program extended if justified.

KING GETS FAN MAIL FROM U. S.

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 10.—King George of England has a fan mail that any film star might envy and some of it comes from the United States.

Secrets of the royal mailbag have just been revealed by Captain F. A. Mason, recently retired court postmaster.

Captain Mason dealt with millions of letters, telegrams and cables during his tenure. As many as 10,264 telegrams and cables were handled in one 5-day period during the recent Jubilee.

"Every sender of a communication, no matter what his rank or station in life, received a reply sent by the King or by one of the private secretaries," he said.

The telephone switchboard at Buckingham Palace is a private exchange with 240 extensions within the palace itself, and with direct private lines to the other royal palaces and to the royal yacht Victotria and Albert when it is being used.

Reversal Of Drink Laws May Bring Mexicans To U. S.

(International News Service)

BROWNSVILE, Tex.—For 15 years the Rio Grande, Texas' southwestern border has had the appellation of the "river that's wet on one side and dry on the other."

All during national prohibition thirsty Texans found it easy to cross the river to Mexico and there slake their thirst on legitimate liquor at reasonable prices.

But now the situation may be reversed. The recent referendum vote in Texas showed the voters in favor of an amendment to the Constitution establishing local option in place of the theoretical bonedryness that this state has affected for years. But over on the other side of the Rio Grande, the drastic reform program which is being carried by President Cardenas may soon make the Latin-American country a fine example of prohibition.

If that occurs will the usual tourist route over boundary stream be reversed? That seems possible if Americans are accomodating and stock up on tequilla, Mezcal and pulque to which Mexican tastes are accustomed, as the Mexican did in the case of Scotch rye, and gin—none of them especially popular in Mexico.

Beauty Slays Her Lover--At 70 m.p.h.

(International News Service)

BELGRADE.—Because he was going to marry another girl, pretty Angelina Sekoshan, 17, shot her lover dead from the pillion seat of his racing motorcycle, when he was taking her for a last ride.

Dressed in her best clothes, she got up behind Franz Narga and the powerful machine roared off into the country. It is estimated it was moving over 70 miles an hour when she shot him dead. Then, still sitting on the Pillion seat, she shot herself.

The motorcycle careened on down the road, finally crashing into a wall and hurling the two dead passengers into a field.

U. S. GIRLS GO TO AUSTRALIA TO LEARN TO MILK

(International News Service)

VIENNA—Mozart's music and Viennese cooking were taught by Austrian professors to American girls this summer in a picturesque Tyrolian village, where a summer school at Oetz was founded by the American professor G. H. Mathiason, eight years ago.

During the first years of the existence of the community only a score of students came over from America. This year 108 American girls made their headquarters at the Hotel Kassel in Oetz, the largest building in the vicinity, which was rented exclusively for this purpose, learned how to milk the cow, and studied German language, history, drawing, international relations, and the League of Nations.

The girls, though from wealthy families, have to get their food themselves, and do all the work in connection with it, even such as mowing meadows and looking after the stables.

The unique course cost them over $400 each.

ALDERMAN AT WORK ON TOWN WOODPILE

(International News Service)

WINDSOR, Ont.—Two weeks ago Thomas Raycroft, radical alderman, was ordered by Miss Nellie Wark, relief director, to go to work on the municipal woodpile or have his name stricken from local relief rolls.

Raycroft, who had incurred Miss Ward's wrath by leading a strike of relief woodpile workers, refused unless Miss Wark "got on the other end of the saw."

Today, however, he was sawing wood—without Miss Wark, but admittedly content in securing a 20% increase in groceries for the woodmen.

The cause of the loudest complaint isn't the lack of work, but the increased difficulty of making money without it.

Hoosier Hunters Setting Record

(International News Service)

WARSAW, Ind.—A record for law observance is claimed by Indiana state game wardens operating in Kosciusko county, which contains numerous lakes popular with anglers.

Wardens have checked 3,500 fishermen since the opening of the season for game fish on June 16, and have failed to find one without a license.

Captain Rodney Fleming, who has been a fish and game warden for 36 years, said that this is the best record he has seen in that time.

Goes Long Way To Prove It's Platonic

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Valerie Hobson has teased the romantic sleuths of Hollywood.

In Hollywood less than a year—she arrived last August to fulfill a Universal contract—the English girl has had a mysterious visitor from England three times.

He's due here again soon for his fourth visit.

In competition with him is an American admirer, but Valerie has smilingly refused to identify him except to say "he is prominent in film circles."

"Love?" she exclaimed. "Of course not, they are merely platonic friendships."

But Hollywood is puzzled over a platonic friendship that has caused a man to leave his business and travel thousands of miles in one year.

DISTRIBUTE FISH

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—Distribution of fish from hatcheries of the Fish Commission totaled 173,100 of the various species during July, it was announced today. Of this number, 29,960 were brown trout from eight to twelve inches in length, 37,750 brook trout, six to ten inches, 98,750 fingerling brook trout, 3,640 rainbow trout averaging nine inches in length and 3,000 fingerling black bass.

INSPECT CAMPS

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—The State Health Department's bureau of engineering is now investigating the water supplies for the forty new CCC camps being constructed in Pennsylvania. Departmental interest also involves proper facilities for the disposal of sewage and other camp wastes. This work is being conducted in conjunction with Army officers of the Third Corps Area.

Philly Is Dirtier City Than London

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA.—A survey here revealed that Philadelphia residents breathe air containing approximately 53 and one-half tons of dirt to every square mile. The research was made to determine the degree of air polution this city suffers as comparable to that of London, Eng., reported to be the dirtiest city in the world.

When the test was finished it was disclosed that Philadelphia is twice as dirty as London, despite the English city's soft coal fires and dense fog.

Two "Reds" Shot For Farm Arson

(International News Service)

LENINGRAD—Two men were shot here and one sentenced to 10 years imprisonment for setting fire to a collective farm, resulting in the loss of 56 horned cattle and damages amounting to $100,000.

The men were declared to have committed the crime for revenge at being expelled from the collective farm as undesirable elements.

No Political Calm Is Seen

Political Disturbances Are Expected To Increase In Coming Months

NEW POLICIES FOR ROOSEVELT

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S street

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Business men sighed with relief when congress adjourned.

Personally I doubt that congress is as much of a drag on business as business men believe it to be, but they have that complex anyway.

However, signs are that the three or four months between now and the lawmakers' regulate date for reconvening will not be as undisturbed a period as these business folk have been counting on.

For one thing, if a large-scale war breaks out in Europe a congressional extra session probably will be inescapable. The American neutrality act, passed just before the legislators adjourned, was intended to meet war possibilities until next spring It presumably will serve its purpose if hostilities are confined to fighting between Italy and Ethiopia, but scarcely if other countries become involved in the meantime. In that event numerous situations are sure to develop which will have to be dealt with on short notice—situations that the neutrality act will not cover and with which the state department will not be equal to dealing lone-handed.

SUPERFICIAL COMMOTION

Russo-American relations inevitably will continue to boil and bubble.

Moscow obviously simply cannot control the activities of American "reds", here in their native land. Yet the administration has its reasons for persisting in blaming the Soviet outfit for them; it is the best method of proving that it is not, itself, communistic. It isn't, as a matter of fact, as radical as that, but it knows it will be accused of it in the coming national campaign, and a break with Russia is the best way of convincing the average voter that it isn't. It is confidentially admitted in executive circles that President Roosevelt now heartily wishes he never had acquiesced in American recognition of the Kremlin; today he is trying to counteract that. But, in doing so, he has over-emphasized the strength of American communism. In reality it does not amount to much, but the row with Russia has been capitalized by its few spokesmen to represent their cause as a serious movement.

Russo-American complications do not, indeed, foreshadow an extra congresional session. Essentially the whole argument is too trivial. Still, it keeps up a superficial commotion.

DANGER OF WAR

The danger of another world war, however, is no mere bugaboo; that is genuine.

Moreover, it is the consensus that President Roosevelt must evolve a startling program of new policies for the 1936 campaign. An outline of them is looked for on his coming transcontinental speaking tour.

The supreme court shortly will be meeting, too. What it may do to recent New Deal legislation is aplenty.

Prices are rising also—but not incomes, to keep pace with them. Hence increasing labor trouble. Strikes are impending in many industries; housewives' and miscellaneous buyers' strikes, likewise.

CONGRESS TO REBEL?

Another item:

Congress, at its next session, will be in an insurgent mood. There is no knowing whether or not the administration can manage it. All that must depend upon what the senators and representatives hear from their home folk during recess—which was expected to be so quiet.

Finally, there is no end of worrying concerning the complexion of the 75th congress (the one to be elected in 1936).

Supposing, as expected, that President Roosevelt wins, the best guess is that he will win with a greatly reduced majority on Capitol Hill—perhaps an uncontrollable one. Supposing, unexpectedly, that a Republican presidential candidate wins, he surely will win with a skimpy majority; perhaps with a majority against him.

In either case there is likely to be an executive legislative deadlock.

Ensuing months, then, hardly can be politically peaceful.

Internal Revenue Collections Show Increase In State

Greater Increase Shown In Pennsylvania Than In Nation At Large

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 10.—Collections of Federal internal revenue during the fiscal year of 1935, ended last June thirtieth, increased to a greater degree in Pennsylvania than the nation generally, according to figures released today by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering.

Collections of the Federal taxes in the Keystone State totaled $244,355,727. This was an increase of 26 per cent over the previous fiscal year. Collections of Federal levies in the country as a whole, on the other hand, increased only 23 per cent. The percentage increase was greater in Pennsylvania than all but 18 states.

The $244,355,727 in Federal revenue collected in Pennsylvania was classified as follows: corporation income tax, $45,029,145; individual income tax, $44,513,179; miscellaneous taxes, $136,212,489; and agricultural adjustment taxes, $18,600,912.

As compared with the fiscal year of 1934, collections of corporation income tax during the 1935 fiscal period increased 48 per cent in Pennsylvania but only 44 per cent in the country. Individual income tax increased only 24 per cent in the state as against 26 per cent in the nation. Miscellaneous tax collections increased 16 per cent in the state but only 13 per cent in the country and agricultural adjustment taxes expanded more than 80 per cent in Pennsylvania as against only 42 per cent in the 48 states as a group.

Long's Dictation May Get Setback

October Session Of Supreme Court May Pass On Louisiana Moves

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The possibility of the supreme court administering a setback to Senator Huey Long in his dictation of Louisiana legislation was seen today as preparations went forward for the October session of the court.

Three acts of the Louisiana legislature, two of them emerging from the turbulent sessions dominated by the "Kingfish" last year, are before the court. Other appeals may follow.

In one instance Senator Long himself is listed as an attorney defending the action of the legislature.

The outstanding case found the "Kingfish" on the defensive, it is the question of constitutionality of the advertising tax levied by the legislature in 1934, during the period when Senator Long was engaged in a bitter political controversy.

The law was held unconstitutional in the federal district court, and Alice Lee Grosjean, supervisor of public accounts of Louisiana, has petitioned the high court for review.

Under the law every person or firm selling advertising printed in any newspaper, magazine or periodical having a circulation of over 20,000 copies a week, or exhibited by means of motion pictures, is subjected to a two per cent gross receipts tax.

The law was attacked as an effort to throttle a free press in the nation in violation of constitutional guarantees.

REVEALS WHERE PAYROLL GOES

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 10.—The largest chunk taken from Cleveland payrolls goes to the landlord, who takes 23 percent, with the butcher and grocer running a close second, taking 20 percent.

These figures were revealed by a flow of money test conducted by the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, which paid off a portion of its employes with silver dollars in meeting the semi-monthly payroll.

One hundred and ten thousand cartwheels were used in the tests, and were traced as follows:

Twenty-two thousand dollars, or 20 percent, went to the butcher and grocer; $25,300 or 23 percent, to landlords; $12,100, or 11 percent, for savings, insurance, building and loan payments etc.; $6,600, or 6 percent, for gas, water, light, telephone and carfare; $11,000, or 10 percent, to department stores, $1,100, or one percent, to drug stores; $4,400, or four percent to dentists and doctors, $2,200, or two percent, for furniture, and the same amount for dairy products and for the theater and other amusements.

Seven percent each went for automobile expense and miscellaneous expenses, four percent for restaurants and one percent to taxes.

Comparison with similar tests in other Ohio cities shows that Cleveland spends less for food and more for rent, less for utilities and more for department stores than other towns in the state.

Auction Method To Sell Poultry, Eggs Is Success

Sales Pass $1,000,000 Mark In Six Months

GRADED EGGS ARE IN DEMAND

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—The auction method of selling eggs and poultry has apparently become a permanent part of the farm marketing system in Pennsylvania, according to J. Hansell French, secretary of agriculture.

Eggs and poultry valued at more than a million dollars were sold by this method in Pennsylvania during the first six months this year. These auctions, all of which have been organized within the last five years, are located at Doylestown, Bucks county; Center Point, Montgomery county; New Holland, Lancaster county; Butler, Butler county; Coatesville, Chester county; Harleysville, Montgomery county; and Bethlehem, Northampton county.

The rapid growth of this type of marketing is shown by the fact that the total sales for the first half of this year exceeded the total for all of 1935, and almost equalled that of 1934.

When located near enough to large urban centers to attract buyers who desire high-grade products, poultrymen have found the egg auction a most desirable way of selling. The eggs are assembled from a large number of producers and classified according to federal grades. The graded product is then sold to the highest bidder and each producer is paid according to the quality of the product delivered.

The auctions are described as the greatest single means of educating poultrymen to produce a high-quality product. It is believed that the operation of these markets in Pennsylvania has standardized egg production in sections where the auctions are located and has stabilized egg prices at a level more favorable to the local producers than at any time since the development of the commercial poultry industry in the far west.

Loan Application May Have Been Late

Council In Quandary Over Reception Of City's Request On Huge Loan

Councilmen Joseph D. Alexander and B. F. Butler today delivered to councilmanic colleagues a report as to their conference with WPA officials at Harrisburg last week.

The WPA officials told the councilmen that the WPA could not allow more than 4 2-10 percent for material and equipment and the city officials have agreed to conform to the WPA regulations.

Relative to the application to the PWA for a loan and grant amounting to $1,500,000 for a municipal electric distribution system, contingent on approval of the bond issue sentiment vote, the officials are in a quandary.

Solicitor Robert White sent from here, Saturday, a formal request to PWA officials at Harrisburg for the loan. However, according to regulations as understood by city officials the last day for receipt of such was September 7.

According to their interpretation of the rules the application had to be in the hands of the PWA officials at Harrisburg, by September 7 and in the PWA officials possession at Washington, September 12.

In speaking of the proposed loan and grant, which is entirely contingent on the voters approval, the city officials do not as yet know if White's application arrived too late for consideration.

Water Board Will Wage Fight Against Stream Pollution

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10.—A state wide campaign to end stream pollution, beginning with the Ohio river and its tributaries in western Pennsylvania, was announced today by the sanitary water board.

In a resolution presented by Secretary of Forests and Waters Thomas C. Buchanan, the board urged municipalities and industries to cooperate in establishing sewage disposal plants or treatment works to "keep streams clean".

Stating that federal funds were available for anti-pollution projects, the board warned that failure of offending plants and municipalities to act would cause the board to "ignore pleas of lack of financial ability as excuses" for not obeying future orders of the body.

BRAHAM FOR JUDGE

The population of Lawrence County in 1930 was 97,258. Its real estate alone, exclusive of all other wealth in 1930, was $65,194,202. A man learned in the law is to be selected by those people to sit in judgment upon themselves and their affairs. His authority is wide, extending even to life and death.

That authority over a sixty-five million dollar business and almost one hundred thousand people cannot be granted lightly. It is not a political melon to be cut; it is not a favor to be handed around. The people are entitled to the best man available.

Investigate our candidate. We believe he will stand the test.

CHICAGO CUBS BECOME PENNANT THREATS

Win Two Games, Cardinals Lose

Chicago Cubs Advance To Within Game Of Lead In National League

NEW YORK GIANTS BATTLING HARD

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Charley Grimm—banjo-playing humorist of the Cubs—must be enjoying a few quiet chuckles today at the expense of Frankie Frisch of the Cards and Bill Terry of the Giants.

You may recall that these two have said repeatedly the National league race lies only between the Cards and Giants and that Charley's Cubs were not even to be taken seriously.

Therefore, it must be highly amusing to Charley to take a look at the standings today and find his Cubs only one game back of the pace-setting Cards and two ahead of the Giants.

Good Pitching.

It may be true the Cubs lack pitching. And they may not have sufficient reserves. Nor hit hard enough. Nor field well enough. But somehow or other they go on winning and they still pay off on results on the field and not on paper.

The Cubs are proving themselves just as tough and hard to take as advertised on their own lot and they'll probably be a lot tougher before they become any softer.

They may not have much pitching—on paper—but I note they had enough yesterday to take a doubleheader from the Braves, 5-1 and 2-1. Tex Carleton held the Braves to four hits in the opener and after his mates gave Larry French a two-run lead in the nightcap he had enough to hold it. If that isn't good pitching, it will suffice until something better turns up.

Cardinals Lose.

Meanwhile the Cards were being knocked off again by the Phils, 4-3, thus making Frankie Frisch's birthday very miserable indeed.

Curt Davis outpitched Phidgety Phil Collins and Ed Heusser and once more the pressure is on the champions. It begins to appear as if the Dean boys will have to pitch every other day if the Cards are to stay in front.

The other National league teams were idle but there were some interesting developments in the other league, where the Yanks took their third straight from the Idians, 5-3, the Tigers took a seven-inning affair from the Senators, 5-4, and the surprising Brownies made it three in a row from the A's, 5-1.

Chicago Cubs Buy Outfielder

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Johnny Gill towering slugger of the Minneapolis Millers, has been purchased by the Chicago Clubs for "cash and players," it was learned today.

Gill, will be kept on the Association team until the season closes, according to the terms of the deal, but will be available for the Cubs if they get into the world's series.

Standing 6 feet 3 inches, weighing 190 pounds, the 28-year-old star, is hitting a .361 clip and yesterday poled out his 41st homer of the season.

Harpster Builds Strong Team At Carnegie Tech

Nester Henrion, Guard, Will Be Shifted To Tackle, It Reported

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 10—The first major development of Carnegie Tech's fall football training camp, which is being held in Skiko Bowl on the campus, has been the decision to shift Nester Henrion, brilliant left guard of last years, to left tackle.

As a sophomore last year, Henrion developed rapidly into a great star. A big, raw-boned lad, weighing close to 200 pounds, the Charleroi, Pa., boy was a defensive and offensive standout for the Tartans. He was selected as one of the six best guards in the country on the college's concensus team.

The coaching staff has long considered changing him over to tackle, especially because of the graduation of Groft and Doloway, the 1934 regulars. They hesitated to move him from a position where he was of tremendous value until Earl Hudson, a letterman last year, went down with pleurisy on the eve of the start of practice. Hudson was one of the few tackles who had had some varsity experience. It is not certain when Hudson can start practice, since he is still in a hospital, and with the opening game with Case in Cleveland only three weeks away, something had to be done in a hurry.

Guard Job Open

John Kawchak, of Johnstown, and Jock Sutherland, of Butler, both sophomores, were told to fight it out for Henrion's old job, and it is nip and tuck to date. Sutherland was a tackle last year, but speed makes him a good guard prospect.

As the Carnegie team starts to shape up now, Henrion will have to be the key man on the left side of the line and Frank Chyczewski, of Ambridge, who won his spure as a sophomore last year, will bolster the right side.

When a tentative varsity lineup took the field the first time for signal practice, it had Miklaucic, sophomore at left end; Henrion, left tackle; Kawchak, left guard; co-captain Trbovich, center; Chyczewski, right guard; Yechnik, sophomore, right tackle; Sanford, right end; Kopcsak, sophomore, quarterback; co-captain Terebus, left halfback; Lehman, right halfback, and Patt, fullback.

Germans have no right to persecute Jews and Catholics. They haven't paid their dues to the kleagle.

The G. O. P. really has nothing against Hoover except the nation's conviction on that they can't come back.

Bridenbaugh Is Named Head Of County Coaches

Twenty-One Coaches At Organization Meeting At "Y", Lawther Gives Fine Talk

PLAN MEETINGS EVERY MONTH

Philip H. Bridenbaugh, head coach of athletics at New Castle high will serve as the first president of the Lawrence County Coaches Association for the ensuing year. His election took place last night at the "Y" as twenty-one of the coaches of the county gathered to organize and hear a very fine talk on "Basketball" by Head Floor Coach John D. Lawther of Westminster College.

The organization the first of its kind ever held in Lawrence county was called to order by Charles P. "Bugs" Walther, sports writer on the News, who after a few introductory remarks about the purpose of the gathering introduced Coach Lawther who gave the men one of the finest talks on basketball that has been their pleasure to hear. Lawther explained the workings of his great Westminster floor teams. He said that he didn't have any set system, but as John said, "we generally get the results." Lawther's talk was very much appreciated by the coaches. He was invited back at any time.

Fredericks Named

The election of officers followed brief talks by each of those present, and the result gave Phil Bridenbaugh the presidency, with John H. Fredericks of Bessemer being named as vice president and Dan Carroll of George Washington high as secretary. President Bridenbaugh after taking the chair appointed the following program committee to act for the year—Jay G. Rudolph of Union, George D. Phelps of Shenango and Denny Schill of Ellwood City.

It was voted upon by the coaches to meet once each month, on the first Monday in the month. The next meeting will occur at the Y. M. C. A. here on Monday night, October 7. The meeting time was set at 7:30 o'clock.

Enon Valley high, Harlansburg and Plaingrove were not represented at the meeting and the coaches of these fine schools are invited to get in touch with Secretary Carroll at Washington high and enroll in the organization.

Faculty Managers

It was voted upon by the coaches to include the faculty managers of each of the high schools in the association. This will no doubt step the membership up to near the 50 mark.

From time to time prominent coaches in football, basketball, baseball and track will be obtained as speakers.

The movement went over with a "bang" in this county and the coaches left the meeting last night very enthusiastic over the prospects of what the organization can do.

The following coaches attended the meeting:

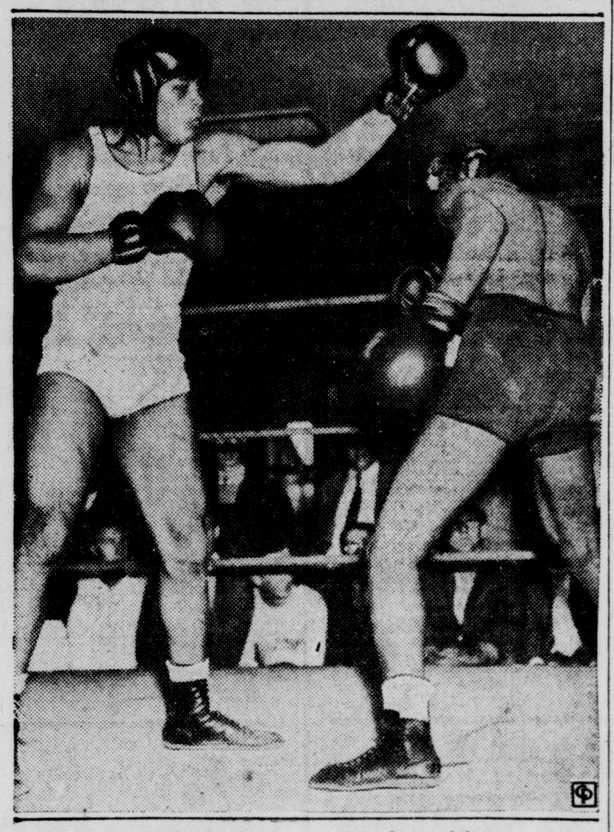
Phil. H. Bridenbaugh, New Castle high.
Denny Schill, Ellwood City.
"Dutch" Croft, Ellwood City.
John H. Fredericks, Bessemer.
A. Gerald Capezzuti, Bessemer.
Victor H. Thomas, Bessemer.
Frank Nocera, Shenango.
George Phelps, Shenango.
Lee Roy Miller, Princeton.
L. B. Hennon, Wampum.
J. D. Shelatree, Wampum.
L. DeWitt Emerick, East Brook.
John D. Eagleson, New Wilmington.
David Morgan Boyd, Union.
Jay G. Rudolph, Union.
Forrest Eakin, Princeton.
Ralph D. Spears, Mt. Jackson.
John G. Ruebis, George Washington.
Dan A. Carroll, George Washington.
William Wallace, Ben Franklin.
Emmett Gillaspie, Ben Franklin.

Protest Hearing At "Y" Tonight

Hearing on the Croton Progressive protest of the St. Andrews victory earlier in the soft ball season will be held at the "Y" tonight at 8 o'clock. President Walther will take the chair as presiding officer. The commissioners, Fraser, Buckingham and Sonti, are asked to attend the meeting. Secretary Michael "Jake" Babovsky will be present.

Manager Masterson of Croton, Irv Rubeis, Lundy Aven from the Crotons are invited to the meeting to give their versions of what happened in that fatal inning. The manager of the St. Andrews team, Keith VanFossan, is asked to attend the meeting. The men who umpired that particular game at Gaston park are also asked to be present.

JOE LOUIS MISSES WITH A LEFT



Joe Louis Larry Johnson

Sparmate Larry Johnson was lucky when he ducked the swishing left uppercut that Joe Louis threw his way in a training bout at Pompton Lakes, N. J., where the Detroit Brown Bomber has been training to meet Max Baer, Sept. 24, in New York. Notice the muscles in Joe's left arm.

Bessemer High Gridders Start Intensive Drills

Coach John H. Fredericks Has Squad Of 35 Out For Football This Fall

(Special To The News)

BESSEMER, Pa., Sept. 10.—Bessemer high school football team, Lawrence county high school champions in 1934, will have another strong team this year. Head Coach John Fredericks greeted a squad of 35 young huskies at the first session and was pleased with the turnout.

Out of the 35 men reporting only two of them are lettermen from the championship team of last year, but the reserves from last year are expected to prove valuable and Bessemer high is looking forward to another fine season on the gridiron.

Grove City First.

The first game of the season for the Bessemers will take place on September 21 at Grove City. This is a tough assignment for the Fredericksmen, but they are confident of giving the Grove City boys under Joe Hartman a tough engagement.

Eight Games On Franklin Card

Franklin High Gridders To Start Season September 23 With Union Reserves

Ben Franklin Junior High School football candidates reported to Head Coach Emmett Gillaspie yesterday in the rain and Gillaspie counted 65 of them. Nine of the men reporting were veterans of last year and earned letters. Six of the candidates were reserves last year, thus the outlook is encouraging at the East Side school.

The first game for the Franklins will be on September 23 with the Union High Reserves at Taggart Field, according to an announcement by Assistant Coach William Wallace today.

The following lettermen reported: Ryan, Maciarella, James, Nocera, Russos, Wilson, Coitello, Parisi, and Colella. The reserves from last year are: Noga, Miterzueski, Johns, Toscano, McCracken and Bombyk.

There is a wealth of new material available and Coach Gillaspie expects to put out another championship team.

The following schedule had been drawn up—

Sept. 23—Union Reserves, at home.
Sept. 26—Bessemer Reserves, at home.
Sept. 30—Shenango Reserves, away.
Oct. 7—Shenango Reserves at home.
Oct. 11—N. C. High B. team, at home.
Oct. 15—Union Reserves, away.
Oct. 18—Bessemer Reserves, away.
Oct. 25.—George Washington at home.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Officers and club managers of the Lawrence County Baseball league met last night at the Sporting Goods Store and by a unanimous vote upheld the action of President Alex Samuels in ordering the league to close August 25, which leaves the American Sheet & Tin Plate company winner of the pennant. The Mahoning Club finished second. Manager Cangie of Mahoning insisted that he had not had sufficient time to play off postponed games, six in all. Two of them were with the Tin Platers. Manager Black of the A S & T P asserted that Mahoning had had time and said Mahoning had played off only one game from August 12 until August 25. There was only one rainy day between the August 12-25 period, Black declared. Black declared his team had played off all postponed games. Cangie claimed that he did not receive the closing notice until the night of August 23 and maintained that the league officials should have set a date for the playing off of the postponed games. At a previous meeting of the loop the managers agreed to set their own dates and the league officers were not asked to set dates previous to the closing of the league. President Samuels polled the managers as to whether or not his league closing order should stand and the vote, with Mahoning and the Tin Platers not voting, was carried unanimously. The league will hold a banquet in October.

Marian McDougall, of Portland, winner of the women's Western golf crown in 1934, made a 38-43-81 at Chicago yesterday to take the lead in the seventh annual women's 72 hole medal play at the Northmoore club. Sylvia Annenberg of Long Island, New York state champion, finished with a 40-43-83.

Freddie Miller, N. B. A., featherweight champion last night proved his championship mettle by presenting Eddie Zivic with a lacing in a 10 round battle at Pittsburgh. In fact, Miller outclassed his Pittsburgh foe.

Eddie Risko, Syracuse, has arrived in Pittsburgh where he will continue training for his fight with Teddy Yarosz, middleweight champion, September 14, at Forbes field. Risko scored a technical knockout over Teddy when Yarosz injured a knee at Scranton.

BEAVER FALLS WILL VOTE ON MOVIES

BEAVER FALLS, Sept. 10—Beaver Falls voters will be given an opportunity to vote for or against Sunday movies at the November election. City council directed Solicitor Leonard L. Ewing to draft such a resolution to the Beaver county commissioners to place the question of the ballot.

STREET CAR LINE TO BE ABANDONED

NEW BRIGHTON, Sept. 10.—Street car service between Junction Park and Rochester will be suspended September 19, it was announced definitely today by W. F. Baum, receiver of the Beaver Valley Traction company. A streetcar-to-coach transfer will be made at the Junction.

Rain Does Not Halt Gridders

Coach Bridenbaugh Puts New Castle "Hurricane" Through Stiff Workout

Despite a dripping sky yesterday afternoon Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh had the New Castle high school "Red Hurricane" football machine out on the greensward of Taggart field for a workout.

The young men may have been drenched to the skin with the rain, but you coulin't help but notice that they gloried in the rain and that the only thing they were thinking about was football and the Braddock game. There is a fine spirit of cooperation on the team this year and New Castle is destined to be in there fighting hard in every game for a victory. The schedule is tough but not too tough, according to some of the youngsters who are inspired to greater things.

Game at 8 O'Clock.

Braddock high will be the opponents at Taggart field Friday night under the archlights. The starting time of the game is 8 o'clock with the gates opening at 7 o'clock to admit the customers.

Football is in the air and New Castle, defending champions of class AA, will be out there Friday night to make an impressive start. Here is the way the starting lineup may look: Tuscano and Nocera at the ends, Crisci and Probst at the tackles, Small and Jokinen at the guards, Blackie Adamo at center. The backfield will more than likely have Dal Mumford at quarter, with Donegan and Cox at the halfback posts and with either Stanley Kominic or Gabby DeCaprio at the fullback post.

There is a lot of polishing of the rough edges to be done this week. That week in camp did the boys a world of good and gave the coaches ideas that they never had before.

Little Survives First Round In Golf Tourney

Rufus King, 19, Unknown, Gives British And American Champ Real Scare

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 10.—With clearing skies, the national amateur golf championship resumed its furious way out at the country club this morning with a bit of new violence to present. The latter came in the form of the second round match between a man who once was champion and another who should be, the expected result being a dramatic meeting.

A gallery of at least 5,000 was looked for when George Dunlap, exchampion, and Johnny Goodman, who once beat all the professionals, start out in a clear cool morning to decide which may be the better man. Right now, nobody knew. Both great match players, only the scoreboard and destiny could tell about a pair like that. Their meeting was by long odds the headline event of a second day in which more than 60, 18-hole matches were to be held.

Little Extended

Their survival to the second round climaxed a first day in which nothing of great moment occurred, barring Lawson Little's near defeat by a Denver unknown and the actual elimination of Francis Ouimet.

Little, twice British and once American champion, almost passed away at the insistance of 19-year-old Rufus King who shot four birdies in a row on the first nine holes before he settled down and composed himself. Ouimet, the old line champion, fell before a young man by the name of Levi Yoder of Washington, D. C., in a match that saw the ex-champion fade pathetically on the back nine.

However, on excellent authority, today is another today; so we'll consider the present and as hurriedly as possible dismiss the past. Goodman and Dunlap will help. One is an amateur who has been threatening to take the national championship for years, his most notable performance being the winning of the open in 1933. Dunlap product of the Piping Rock set, won the amateur title at Cincinnati two years ago. He is quite a man in an emergency of any kind. Briefly both Goodman and Dunlap are the type that can and will finish on their face before yielding to the inevitable.

A philosopher says nobody has invented a new sin for 5000 years. He should have seen the way our partner played bridge last night.

Team Extends Thanks To Post

American Legion Juniors Grateful For Consideration Shown By Gaston Post

Members of the American Legion Junior baseball team, which was sponsored by the Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion, and which gave a good account of itself in the games played with teams in the surrounding district, have expressed their appreciation to the members of the committee and the post for the good times shown them during the past summer by the Legion members.

They expressed their determination to go out next year and give a better account of themselves.

The expense of the team was born entirely by the Gaston Post and the team represented New Castle in the state contests, being nosed out for the district honors by Sharon in a series of close games. The New Castle team won the championship of the 26th Congressional district, comprising Beaver, Butler and Lawrence counties.

Those composing the team were: G. Adams, B. Boston, H. Updegraff, D. Updegraff, C. Brest, H. Davies, E. Poroda, E. Morris, J. Copper, E. Ostroski, M. Kouch, B. McGary, D. Baker, and P. Schooley.

Washington High Gridders Called

Junior High Football Boys Called By Coach Dan Carroll Today

George Washington Junior High football material was called out today by Head Coach Dan Carroll. The boys gathered for equipment at 3:30 o'clock at the office of Mr. Carroll in the junior high school building.

There will be two teams at Washing High the Junior High team consisting of boys from the seventh, eighth and ninth grades and the George Washington High team from the 10th grade.

Washington High had a strong team last year and expect to be even better this year, according to Dan Carroll.

Union Gridders Hard At Work

Coach Davey Boyd Drives Unionites Through Hard Scrimmages

MEET ELLWOOD ON SATURDAY

Union High school football team with a very discouraging outlook is plugging along at Union High field every afternoon under the watchful eye of Head Coach Davey Boyd, and his capable assistant Jay G. Rudolph.

Union High is called upon to open the 1935 season this coming Saturday at Ellwood City and with only a fair sized line and a light backfield Union cannot hope to compete with the Ellwoodians. Union's only hope is to keep the score down as low as possible. The new Ellwood coach is Danney Schill and he gets his Lawrence County baptismal on Saturday.

Battle For Jobs

Some merry battles are taking place at Union High field every afternoon for positions on the team. Rudesill and Guinaugh are fighting for the fullback job, with Rudesill the more experienced of the two, but this Guinaugh boy is making him step. The quarterback jobs will be handled by Annerella and Pattison, the boys being alternated. The halfback posts will be a battle between Denny, Eve, Mrozek, and Baily.

Caiazza, King, Kenehan, Leasure and Heckert will battle it out for the end posts. This is the finest set of ends that Union has had for some time, and all are dependable boys. The tackle jobs will go to either Taylor, Fulton, Smith, Ostrosky or Telesez.

The guards are giving Boyd quite some worry, and are Jones, Haggerty, Kelly and Sniezek. The centers are very weak and are P. Annerella and Harry both inexperienced men.

Several on the squad are nursing bruises, but there are no serious injuries. The Ellwood City 18 to 6 defeat last year has not been forgotten by Union High and wearers of the Blue and White will be out for revenge Saturday.

Sutherland Has Hustling Group At Camp Windber

Coach Jock Sutherland Of Pitt Will Have To Depend Upon Sophs For Strength

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 10.—There are a lot of football players at Camp Hamilton, where for twenty-two years Pitt football teams have been training, but the majority of these men are in camp for the first time as varsity men.

Never since Jock Sutherland took over the reins at Pitt back in 1924, has a Pitt squad been composed to such a great extent of first year talent. Not only will there be some twenty-two or twenty-three sophomores in camp, but the remainder, only a dozen will have had any varsity game experience.

Of the dozen lettermen, two played regularly, six saw service with the second team all season, and four others saw action as relief players for only half the season.

Depends On Rookies

All down the line Sutherland will have to look to sophomores and inexperienced reservists for first and second string duty. At the ends, both Frank Souchak of Berwick and Paul Shaw of Bradford, both sophomores will have to play.

Pitt's second string tackles, at least, will be sophomores, none of the 1934 reserves being capable enough. They will be chosen from among Teddy Schmidt of Carrick, Tony Matisi of Endicott, N. Y., and George Delich of Gary, Ind.

Three guards are needed, and available are Jim Scarfpin of Martins Ferry, a third and fourth string tackle a year ago, Leon Wohlgemuth, of Bellaire, a third string guard, and Dante Dalle Tezze, of Jeannette and Luke Richards of Kingston, both sophomores.

A center replacement must be found for Kliskey, and he will be either Don Hensley of Huntington, W. Va., Henry Adams of California, both first year men.

Greene At Quarter

At quarterback Arnald Greene is inexperienced enough for the responsibility, but his reserves, Johnny Michelosen of Ambridge and Art Leanord of Pittsburgh are both sophomores.

There is really only one post open for a half-back that expects to play a lot, and that job is going to go to William Stapulis, a sophomore from California.

A wide-open race at fullback will find Frank Patrick of East Chicago, Indiana, another sophomore, starting even with the rest of the field, and with the odds in his favor of finishing ahead of the pack for the starting post.

Church Golfers Banquet Thursday

Fine Program Lined Up For Church Golfers At Highland U. P. Church

Members of the New Castle church golfing league who didn't get very many "birdies" this year will get chicken instead at the Highland U. P. church Thursday night at the second annual banquet of the league.

President J. B. "Jack" Waddington is very enthusiastic about the coming dinner. He had a touch of indigestion last year at the banquet and couldn't eat, but this year it will be a different story.

Sam Lewis is the chairman of the program committee for the banquet and has secured Attorney Thomas W. Dickey and Attorney Walter Reynolds for some more of their wit and humor. Jack Gerson has donated another beautiful trophy cup to the league for the championship First Presbyterian "B" team.

The tickets for the banquet are in the hands of the team captains and the Highland church should be well packed Thursday night. The dinner is scheduled to start at 6:30 p. m.

"Bitsy" Grant Leading Budge In Tennis Play

By MICHAEL J. FOSTER
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—Donald Budge, Uncle Sam's Davis cup "white hope" is still a long way off from the world's championship ranking which the experts as recently as recently as two days ago were conceding him in the near future.

That the redheaded Californian still lacks the class demanded of a champion was clearly demonstrated at Forest Hills when Bitsy Grant took the the first two sets of their match, 6-4, 6-4 and broke through for a 2-1 lead in the third chapter before a cloudburst stopped the runaway.

Instead of blasing away at the mighty midget, which is the only way to beat the little tormentor of court giants, the coast boy tried to outsteady him from back court, returned soft shot for soft shot. Even when he saw those were losing tactics, he stubbornly stuck to pat-ball. And as a result fell so far behind Bitsy that he'll probably take it on the chin when they wind up today.

Postpone Matches

The women's final and men's finals have been postponed until tomorrow, with the men's final set for Thursday.

Helen Jacobs and Mrs. Sarah Fabyan play for the women's crown and champion having gotten past Mrs. Phyllis King by 6-4, 6-3 scores turning in an exhibition of all court play, and Mrs. Fabyan having upset Katherine Stammers, British ace, 9-7, 7-5, to gain her place in the titular round.

Sidney Wood awaits the Budge-Grant winner.

WELL FOLKS the spinning wheel problem is about solved and Fleetwing Dewberry has a new idea. He received, five telephone calls last week from people who wanted to see that maw got her wheel. One had an 1835 model for $10.00. Another had one for $5 and three wanted to give theirs away to get rid of them. An old lady over in Butler county offered her spinner, that had been in the family 200 years for $2.00, come and get it, and offered to throw in a couch that Geo. Washington had slept on and a chair that Abraham Lincoln had sit in. Frank is waiting now until some one offers him one free and delivers it to the house. It must be in good shape and ready to go or we don't want it as mamma is particular about her spinning wheel. Frank's idea is this: He needs an automobile darn bad. Maybe some one will throw a car in if he takes a spinning wheel. The first offer will be cheerfully accepted. 1t—6

Stock Market Is Irregular

News Of Death Of Senator Huey Long Upsets Stock Market Today

BY LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Disturbed by death of Senator Long and its possible effects on next year's election, the stock market turned dull and irregular today.

Hudson, bright spot in the motors, rose more than a point to a new high for the year. Other motors drifted slightly lower.

U. S. Steel was sluggish. Republic and Bethlehem improved slightly.

New York Central, Delaware & Hudson, Southern Railway and Southern Pacific marked time.

Consolidated Gas lost a point, while Public Service and several other utilities suffered slightly smaller losses.

Electrical equipments were firm. Mail order shares were mixed.

National Distillers and Schenley were slightly lower. Oils were sluggish, but the metal shares including U. S. Smelting and Anaconda improved fractionally.

Food, rail equipment, communication and specialty hares were featureless.

In the commodity markets wheat was fractionally higher and cotton rallied about 50 cents a bale. Bonds were dull and irregular and the dollar was firm.
